The Tour of Britain, the UK's most prestigious cycle race, returns to Suffolk this September for stage five of the 2023 race which will start and finish in Felixstowe.
Come and watch on Thursday 7 September – it's FREE to attend!

Over 100 of the world's top professional cyclists will be racing in stage five of the Tour of Britain on a 192-kilometre (119-mile) route through Suffolk.

Taking in Kesgrave, Ipswich, the Shotley peninsula, and East Bergholt, riders will battle in the cottages.com Sprint at Hadleigh, before heading back into East Suffolk via Needham Market, Stowmarket and Framlingham. The final section sees the stage race back to Felixstowe via Saxmundham, Leiston, and Woodbridge.

And with both the stage start and finish together, plus a full day of FREE activities, it makes great sense to head to Felixstowe where you'll be able to meet the teams and riders before the stage and follow the race on a big screen, until the thrilling finish on Sea Road.

Discover the stage route and plan your visit to the Tour of Britain by using the interactive map and downloading the stage timetable from our website: tourofbritain.co.uk/stages/stage-five
