POZNAN, POLAND 16 - 18 JUNE 2017

FISA 125th Anniversary

This year marks the 125th anniversary of FISA, the World Rowing Federation.

© Comite International Olympique (CIO) 1932 Olympic Games

“As a federation we lead the way in anti-doping, gender equality and take pride in the absolute transparency of our organisation”

Jean-Christophe Rolland, FISA President, Olympic Champion rower, avid indoor rower and one of the youngest sports federation presidents.

Originally known as Federation Internationale des Societies d’Aviron, FISA was the first international sports federation. It was created in 1892, inspired by the growth of rowing that was occurring in the second half of the 19th century.

Led by the Belgian rowing federation, there was the conviction that a uniform set of rules were needed for the sport. At that stage the rules of racing varied from club to club, race distances and the type of racing varied, rowers could use any type of boat and betting was rife.

The first European Rowing Championships were staged in 1893 and rules regulating the sport of rowing began to be established. Now, 125 years later, rowing remains one of the most important Olympic sports with wide appeal. Rowing has transformed the lives of countless individuals from all five continents far transcending the sport itself. The words are true, ‘Rowing is for life.’

What has FISA done?

- Worldwide growth of member nations from five to 151.
- Made 2000m the standard distance.
- A straight buoyed course is now the norm.
- Rowing equipment and boats follow a standard for all.
- International rowing events are held every year including the World Rowing Cup series and World Championships for seniors, under-23s and juniors. There is also the World Rowing Masters Regatta, World Rowing Coastal Championships and World Rowing Tour.
- Led the way in anti-doping measures with out-of-competition testing, no needles policy and Athlete commitment form.
- Put the athlete first and at the centre of every decision. This has included pre-competition health screening.
- Established a powerful set of values in the world of sport – teamwork, fairness, enduring, inclusive and natural.
- Integrated with para-rowing, masters, indoor, coastal and age-group rowing.
- Actively joined the movement for Clean Water and partnered with WWF.

Our planet depends on clean water

One of the greatest challenges of our time is to ensure there is enough clean water to support human life, nourish vital habitats and supply industry and agriculture. World Rowing believes that we all have a responsibility to apply environmentally-sustainable practices to our use and management of water. Rowing is a clean water sport and everyone involved in rowing has reason to protect this vital resource.

World Rowing and the Worldwide Fund for Nature (WWF) work together in a global clean water partnership. This engages all rowers, national federations and all rowing clubs to work towards safeguarding their own freshwater environment. A joint action project, the Kafue River & Rowing Centre is a manifestation of this partnership. This project was inspired by the confluence of so many pressures and problems in the Kafue River in Zambia and the need to bring all stakeholders together to discuss and help find solutions.

The development of a multi-purpose facility for water management education and research and the advancement of rowing in the region is underway. The global rowing community is at the forefront of a fundraising campaign for the Centre and a group of high-profile rowers are ambassadors for the cause. Because to help Kafue is to help the world.

About Poznan

Lake Malta regatta course is located in the centre of Poznan. It is one of the most modern venues in the world and over the last 20 years has hosted large international events in water sports. Poznan hosted the 2007 European Rowing Championships, the 2009 World Rowing Championships, the 2015 European Rowing Championships and the 2016 World Rowing Cup.

Set in the midst of an active leisure centre, the course offers excellent facilities for teams and spectators. Surrounding the venue are numerous recreational installations such as a summer skiing slope, paths for jogging and rollerblading, and volleyball grounds. It is a favoured outdoor spot for locals year-round.

The City of Poznan is central to many commercial and trade events, and therefore welcoming international visitors is something it knows how to do. The picturesque market square full of bar and restaurant terraces is a great place to experience everyday Polish life.

2.2 Boat classes & scoring

The World Rowing Cup, in its current form, was established by FISA in 1997 to give athletes more opportunities for top international racing. It is a series of three regattas that acts as a lead-up to the World Rowing Championships. The racing programme in Poznan includes the 14 Olympic boat classes, a selection of International boat classes and para-rowing boat classes

Olympic and World Rowing Cup boat classes

Men

Single Sculls (M1x)	Single Sculls (W1x)
Double Sculls (M2x)	Double Sculls (W2x)
Lightweight Double Sculls (LM2x)	Lightweight Double Sculls (LW2x)
Quadruple Sculls (M4x)	Quadruple Sculls (W4x)
Pair (M2-)	Pair (W2-)
Four (M4-)	Eight (W8+)
Eight (M8+)

Women

International boat classes (to be contested in Poznan)

Men

Lightweight Single Sculls (LM1x)	Lightweight Single Sculls (LW1x)
Lightweight Pair (LM2-)	Four (W4-)

Women

Para-rowing boat classes

Para PR1 men's single sculls (PR1 M1x)
Para PR1 women's single sculls (PR1 W1x)
Para PR2 mixed double sculls (PR2 Mix2x)
Para PR3 mixed double sculls (PR3 Mix2x)
Para PR3 mixed coxed four (PR3 Mix4+)

Each Olympic boat class earns points based on the finishing order. The highest placing boat from a country is awarded the following points:

1st	8 points
2nd	6 points
3rd	5 points
4th	4 points
5th	3 points
6th	2 points
7th	1 point

If a country has more than one crew in a boat class, points will be awarded only to the first crew. The crew with the most points in each boat class is declared the World Rowing Cup leader and receives the yellow 'World Rowing Cup Leader Bib.' After the third World Rowing Cup regatta, the crew with the most points in each boat class is declared the World Cup winner and receives the World Rowing Cup for that boat class. At the end of each World Cup, the country with the most points will be declared winner of that World Rowing Cup regatta and will receive the leading nation cup. The nation with the most points overall from all boat classes is declared overall winner of the 2017 World Rowing Cup.

2.3 Para-rowing at Poznan

World Rowing Cup II in Poznan will be the first time that para-rowers race internationally over a 2000m distance.

This change has come about following the World Rowing Federation, FISA's, 2017 Extraordinary Congress earlier this year where the foundations were laid for securing and building rowing's future at the Olympic and Paralympic Games.

The change from 1000m racing to 2000m is part of moving towards full integration of para-rowing for all World Rowing events and for the Paralympic Games. The vote for this change received overwhelming support from the majority of the national rowing federations at the Extraordinary Congress and it followed from a recommendation by the International Paralympic Committee (IPC).

The new distance was put to the test last month at the Gavirate International Para Regatta in Italy. These winning times from Gavirate give an idea of what to expect in Poznan:

Para PR1 men's single sculls (PR1 M1x)	09:53 (Ukraine)
Para PR1 women's single sculls (PR1 W1x)	11:10 (Israel)
Para PR2 mixed double sculls (PR2 Mix2x)	08:16 (Netherlands)
Para PR3 mixed double sculls (PR3 Mix2x)	07:38 (France)
Para PR3 mixed coxed four (PR3 Mix4+)	07:16 (Great Britain)

Because of the new distance the fastest times set at Poznan will by default become the new para-rowing World Best Times.

Please note too that the names of the para-rowing boat classes have changed. As they appear above, these names align better with the IPC classification system.

2.6 Who to watch

Women's pair (W2-)

Great Britain medalled twice this season in the women's pair with the new combination of Holly Norton and Karen Bennett. In Poznan, however, it will be a different boat with Anastasia Merlott Chitty and Rebecca Girling, two new athletes at the senior level.

New Zealand, the 2016 Olympic silver medallists, will be sending two crews to Poznan, albeit different from the one that raced in Rio. Grace Prendergast and Kerri Gowler are the more experienced crew, having medalled internationally in the women's eight and women's pair including silver in both of these boat classes from the 2015 World Rowing Championships.

This is a prime boat class for the United States and they have entered two boats. One of them includes multi-Olympian Megan Kalmoe and new pair partner Tracy Eisser. Both raced at the 2016 Olympic Games in the women's quadruple sculls.

Men's pair (M2-)

The European Championship silver medallists from France, brothers Valentin and Theophile Onfroy will be challenging the field once again, as will the Serbian duo of Milos Vasic and Nenad Bedik who took silver at World Rowing Cup I and bronze at the European Rowing Championships.

Keep looking out for the Czech crew of Jakub Podrazil and Lukas Helesic who won bronze at World Rowing Cup I and finished fourth at the European Rowing Championships.

Great Britain and New Zealand will both be sending two new-look crews in this event as they are aiming to select their best line-ups. They will likely add to the quality of the field.

Lightweight men's double sculls (LM2x)

The 2017 European Rowing Champions and reigning Olympic Champions must be the crew to beat. They are the French duo of Jeremie Azou and Pierre Houin. A win in Poznan will extend their now lengthy winning streak.

The O'Donovan brothers from Ireland, Gary and Paul, won silver at this year's European Rowing Championships after finishing fourth at World Rowing Cup I. They are also the Olympic silver medallists from Rio and their confidence continues to grow along with the confidence of rowing in the whole of Ireland.

Keep an eye out too for the Poles. Jerzy Kowalski and Milosz Jankowski took bronze at World Rowing Cup I and finished fourth at the European Rowing Championships. But they will be up against Great Britain's Peter Chambers and Will Fletcher who will be looking to reach the podium once again. Chambers and Fletcher won gold at World Rowing Cup I but finished sixth at the European Rowing Championships.

Lightweight women's double sculls (LW2x)

The Polish combination of Weronika Deresz and Martyna Mikolajczak are leading the way so far this season. They competed at World Rowing Cup I and the European Rowing Championships, winning gold at both regattas. Will they manage a third consecutive win at World Rowing Cup II?

Great Britain will be turning up with two crews including the duo of Katherine Copeland and Emily Craig who won bronze at the European Rowing Championships. Copeland also won silver at World Rowing Cup I with another partner, Charlotte Booth.

Watch out for the new-look Kiwi crew. The multi World Champion and World Best Time holder in the lightweight women's single sculls Zoe McBride will race in the lightweight double in Poznan with Jackie Kiddle, the 2015 under-23 World Champion in this event.

Two Chinese crews will be racing, one of which includes the 2016 Olympic bronze medallist in this event, Feihong Pan.

Women's quadruple sculls (W4x)

Despite Germany's dominance in this boat class, the recent European Rowing Championships showed that the Netherlands, Great Britain and Poland are very ready to challenge to Germans. Germany won at the European Championships, but by a small margin. So for Poznan, Germany has made two changes to their line-up. With Daniela Schultze and Frieda Haemmerling racing in the double, Carlotta Nwajide and Julia Leiding have now joined the quad.

Poland won gold in Belgrade and then finished fourth at the European Rowing Championships. They will race with the same crew in Poznan and with the home crowd advantage, they will create a formidable challenge. Two of the Polish athletes are Olympic bronze medallists from Rio – Maria Springwald and Agnieszka Kobus.

Great Britain will send the same boat that raced in Belgrade and in Racice and won bronze twice. Their two medals will certainly have boosted their confidence.

Men's quadruple sculls (M4x)

Two of the crews that raced at the first World Rowing Cup and the European Rowing Championships, Poland and Great Britain will be racing again.

Poland won silver at World Rowing Cup I and at the European Rowing Championships where they had two new athletes in the boat. In Poznan the same line-up as at World Rowing Cup I will be racing – this time, however, with the home crowd advantage.

Great Britain has tried a variety of combinations up until now and after finishing fourth at the European Rowing Championships, will once again send two crews as they did to World Rowing Cup I. Two of the athletes that won bronze at World Rowing Cup I and finished fourth at the Europeans will be racing together again in the same boat – Jack Beaumont and Jonathan Walton.

Look out too for the Netherlands who were A-finalists at the European Rowing Championships.

The Germans and Australians won gold and silver respectively at the 2016 Olympic Games and will be sending new combinations to Poznan.

Men's double sculls (M2x)

The 2016 Olympic bronze medallists are back. Making their first appearance of the season, Kjetil Borch and Olaf Tuft of Norway are expected to put on a fine show.

The Polish double of Dominik Czaja and Adam Wicenciak won bronze at World Rowing Cup I. At the European Rowing Championships Poland won silver, but with a different line-up. In Poznan, it will again be Czaja and Wicenciak competing.

No other crews that medalled at the first two World Rowing regattas of the season will be lining up in Poznan and in this post-Olympic season the fresh combinations will add to the unpredictability and excitement of the racing.

Women's double sculls (W2x)

The Czech duo of Lenka Antosova and Kristyna Fleissnerova medalled twice so far this season in this boat class; Gold at the European Rowing Championships and bronze at World Rowing Cup I. They will line up again in the hopes of adding yet another medal to their 2017 collection.

Germany will send two new line-ups to Poznan, one of them including two athletes from the women's quadruple sculls that won gold at the European Rowing Championships - Daniela Schultze and Frieda Haemmerling.

Look out too for Australia. Olympia Aldersey medalled in the double last year with another partner and will look to reach the podium yet again.

Men's single sculls (M1x)

The one to look out for is surely Damir Martin. The Croatian has won silver twice so far this season at World Rowing Cup I and at the European Rowing Championships. He is the 2016 Olympic silver medallist and in the absence of European Rowing Championship gold medallist, Ondrej Synek (CZE), Martin will be the one to beat. But watch out for Robert Manson from New Zealand. Manson has switched to the single in the absence of New Zealand's Olympic Champion, Mahe Drysdale and Manson has been making waves domestically.

Watch out too for Cuba's Olympian Angel Fournier Rodriguez who will make his first appearance this season. Fournier has regularly made the podium internationally in recent years and is expected to be one of the top contenders in this field.

Stanislau Shcharbachenia from Belarus won bronze at the European Rowing Championships and will be fighting for the medals once again. Keep an eye out too for last year's under-23 World Champion in this event Tim Ole Naske from Germany as well as Switzerland's Nico Stahlberg who won gold at World Rowing Cup I.

Women's single sculls (W1x)

Great Britain's Victoria Thornley has medalled twice this season so far, winning silver at World Rowing Cup I and gold at the European Rowing Championships. She will be racing again in Poznan.

In Poznan, Thornley will face a new challenge for the season, The 2016 Olympic bronze medallist Jingli Duan from China is racing and is known for her consistent results. Look out too for Ekaterina Karsten of Belarus. The 45-year-old, who is one of the most medalled female athletes in rowing history, has made a comeback in the single this season. She won silver at the European Rowing Championships.

Also do not discount Magdalena Lobnig from Austria who took bronze at World Rowing Cup I but then finished in the B-final at the Europeans. And the long-shot may be Lauren Schmetterling of the United States. Schmetterling is an Olympic Champion from the legendary US women's eight and must know how to perform.

Men's four (M4-)

After winning gold at World Rowing Cup I, Great Britain finished in fifth position at the European Rowing Championships. They come to Poznan with one change to their boat – Matthew Rossiter replaces Callum McBrierty. Rossiter competed in the men's pair at World Rowing Cup I where he won gold and also at the European Rowing Championships where he finished fifth.

Australia will be racing for the first time this season. In stroke seat will be Alexander Hill who raced to silver at the 2016 Olympic Games in this boat class.

Poland has entered two boats in this event. Nearly all of the athletes, except one, hail from their men's eight that raced to silver at the European Rowing Championships.

Do not discount the French. The same crew that finished fourth at the European Rowing Championships will again line up in Poznan.

Men's eight (M8+)

What has regularly been a British vs Germany battle took a turn at last month's European Rowing Championships when Germany took first and Great Britain finished back in fifth. There is little doubt that Great Britain will do their best to change this result in Poznan. Germany and Great Britain will meet again with the British replacing three of their athletes, while Germany will keep the same crew.

Poland finished second at the European Championships last month and will be back to make the most of their home course. Meanwhile arriving on the international scene for the first time this season will be Australia and New Zealand. Australia is rebuilding their eight after not qualifying for the 2016 Olympic Games in this boat class, while New Zealand continues to build on their former under-23 championship crew that finished sixth at the Rio Olympics.

Para-rowing

The Paralympic Champion in the para PR1 men's single sculls (PR1 M1x) Roman Polianskyi from Ukraine will be in the starting blocks in Poznan and will notably face one other Paralympic finalist from Rio – Brazil's Rene Pereira who finished sixth. Two B-finalists from the Paralympic Rowing Regatta, the Lithuanian Augustus Navickas and the German Johannes Schmidt, will also race.

Israel's 2016 Paralympic bronze medallist Moran Samuel has entered the para PR1 women's single sculls (PR1 W1x). Samuel will again be facing Birgit Skarstein from Norway, the 2014 World Champion who finished fourth in Rio. Look out too for Paralympian Krisztina Lorincz from Hungary.

In the para PR3 mixed double sculls (PR3 Mix2x), a number of teams that raced in the Paralympic final last year will line up again. Paralympic Champions from Great Britain, Lauren Rowles and Laurence Whiteley will notably be up against the Netherlands, who crossed the line fourth in Rio. Dutch rower Corne De Koning now has a new partner, Annika Van Der Meer. Also racing in Poznan will be the same combinations from Ukraine and Poland who finished fifth and sixth respectively at the 2016 Paralympic Rowing Regatta.

Three crews will race in the para PR3 mixed coxed four (PR3 Mix4+), with Ukraine sending the same line-up as the one that finished ninth at the Paralympic Games. France is sending a combination that includes two athletes that raced in Rio – Anne-Laure Frappart as well as coxswain Robin Le Barreau. Israel will also be racing with a new-look crew including one athlete, Shay-Lee Shulmit Mizrachi, who raced at the 2015 World Rowing Championships.

3 Current season highlights 2017

3.1 Current season summary

Great Britain topped the points table at the first stage of the World Rowing Cup series, but then finished the European Rowing Championships in Racice (CZE) in an unusual ninth position, ending their three-year domination at the European level.

Instead it was the Italian team, absent from World Rowing Cup I, who left Racice with the biggest collection of European medals: three golds, one silver and four bronzes. Italy won European gold in three Olympic men's events: the pair, the double and the four.

Romania, who also made their first appearance this season at the European Rowing Championships, ranked second on the continental medals table, notably winning all women's sweep events: the pair, the four and the eight. Laura Oprea and Madalina Beres raced in both the women's pair and eight, becoming the only athletes to win two gold medals at the 2017 European Rowing Championships.

The Czech Republic, host nation of the European Rowing Championships, moved up from fifth place at World Rowing Cup I to third place on the European medals table. The multi world and Olympic medallist in the men's single sculls Ondrej Synek pleased his home crowd by winning European gold at his first regatta of the year. Following a bronze medal at World Rowing Cup I, the Czech women's double of Lenka Antosova and Kristyna Fleissnerova went on to claim European gold in Racice.

At their first international regatta of the season, Germany tied in third position with the Czech Republic at the European Rowing Championships, thanks to two gold medals and one bronze. The Germans notably won gold yet again in the men's eight, claiming the European title in this event for the fifth consecutive year. Their new-look women's quad seemed on the right path to defend the legacy of last year's Olympic Champion crew with their European win.

The Netherlands placed second on the points table at World Rowing Cup I and despite finishing thirteenth overall at the European Rowing Championships were able to leave Racice with a respectable tally of six European medals – two bronzes and four silvers. The Dutch notably medalled both at World Rowing Cup I and at the European level in the women's double sculls, women's quadruple sculls, women's four and men's eight.

After a successful regatta at World Rowing Cup I, Switzerland went on to also collect medals at the European level. Michael Schmid won gold in the lightweight men's single sculls and Patricia Merz took bronze in the lightweight women's single. Barnabe Delarze and Roman Roeoesli formed a duo this year and together they took silver at World Rowing Cup I before medalling again at the Europeans with bronze.

Poland has won gold twice so far this season in the lightweight women's double sculls with Weronika Deresz and Martyna Mikolajczak. After taking gold in the men's quadruple sculls at World Rowing Cup I in Belgrade, the Lithuanians did it again at the European Rowing Championships.

France's Jeremie Azou won the European Championship title for the fifth consecutive year in the lightweight men's double sculls. He and current partner Pierre Houin are the reigning Olympic Champions and they seem on form for another successful season.

After winning silver at World Rowing Cup I in the women's single sculls, Victoria Thornley was the only British rower who left the European Rowing Championships with a gold medal.

Filippi Spirit Award

The Filippi Spirit Award encapsulates rowing's core values – teamwork, fairness, natural, inclusive and enduring – and recognises the achievements of our next generation of rowers. It is open to university rowers worldwide and awarded to the rower that best demonstrates the core values of rowing in his/her social, academic and sporting life.

This is the fifth year of the award with Filippi Boats the main sponsor since 2016.

Filippi has been involved in the award since its inception with the winner's university rowing club receiving a custom-built, top-of-the-range Filippi eight racing shell. The boat recognises the winner's involvement in the club and helps the club to develop more young rowers in the future.

A call for nominations for the 2017 Filippi Spirit Award will open in September 2017 and go through to the start of November. To qualify, the applicants must have attended university in the 2017 year.

Filippi Lido S.R.L. (also known as Filippi Boats) is a rowing racing boat manufacturer based in Donorotico, Italy. Since 1980 Filippi has produced top Olympic-class rowing boats.

Previous winners:

2016 Nils Jakob Hoff
Medical student at the University of Bergen, Norway and Olympic rower.

2015 Kirsten Van Fossen

2014 Franz Gravenhourst
