OLYMPIC PROGRAMME COMMISSION

Rowing (FISA) – Light-weight events

The Commission noted the recommended principle of not having weight category events in the Olympic Programme outside combat sports and weightlifting, and the fact that if this general principle is supported by the Executive Board, a review on the previous decision to include light-weight rowing events in the Olympic Programme is required.

In this regard, the Commission noted the very high athlete quota and the high number of events for the sport of rowing, and the possible lack of significant additional universality resulting from the inclusion of light-weight rowing events in the Olympic Programme.

The Commission therefore recommends the exclusion of light-weight rowing events from the Programme of the Games of the XXIX Olympiad, which would also reduce the athlete quota and number of events.
