Our planet depends on clean water

Water is the lifeblood of our planet. It is essential in supporting human life, nourishing indispensable habitats and supplying agriculture and industry. In order to accomplish these crucial tasks, water must be kept clean. The amount and availability of clean water has become one of the greatest challenges of our time. World Rowing believes that we all have a responsibility to apply environmentally-sustainable practices to our use and management of water.

Rowing is a clean water sport and everyone involved in rowing has reason to protect this vital resource.

In 2011 World Rowing and WWF, the World Wide Fund for Nature, formed a global clean water partnership. This engages all rowers, rowing clubs and national rowing federations to work towards safeguarding their freshwater environments.

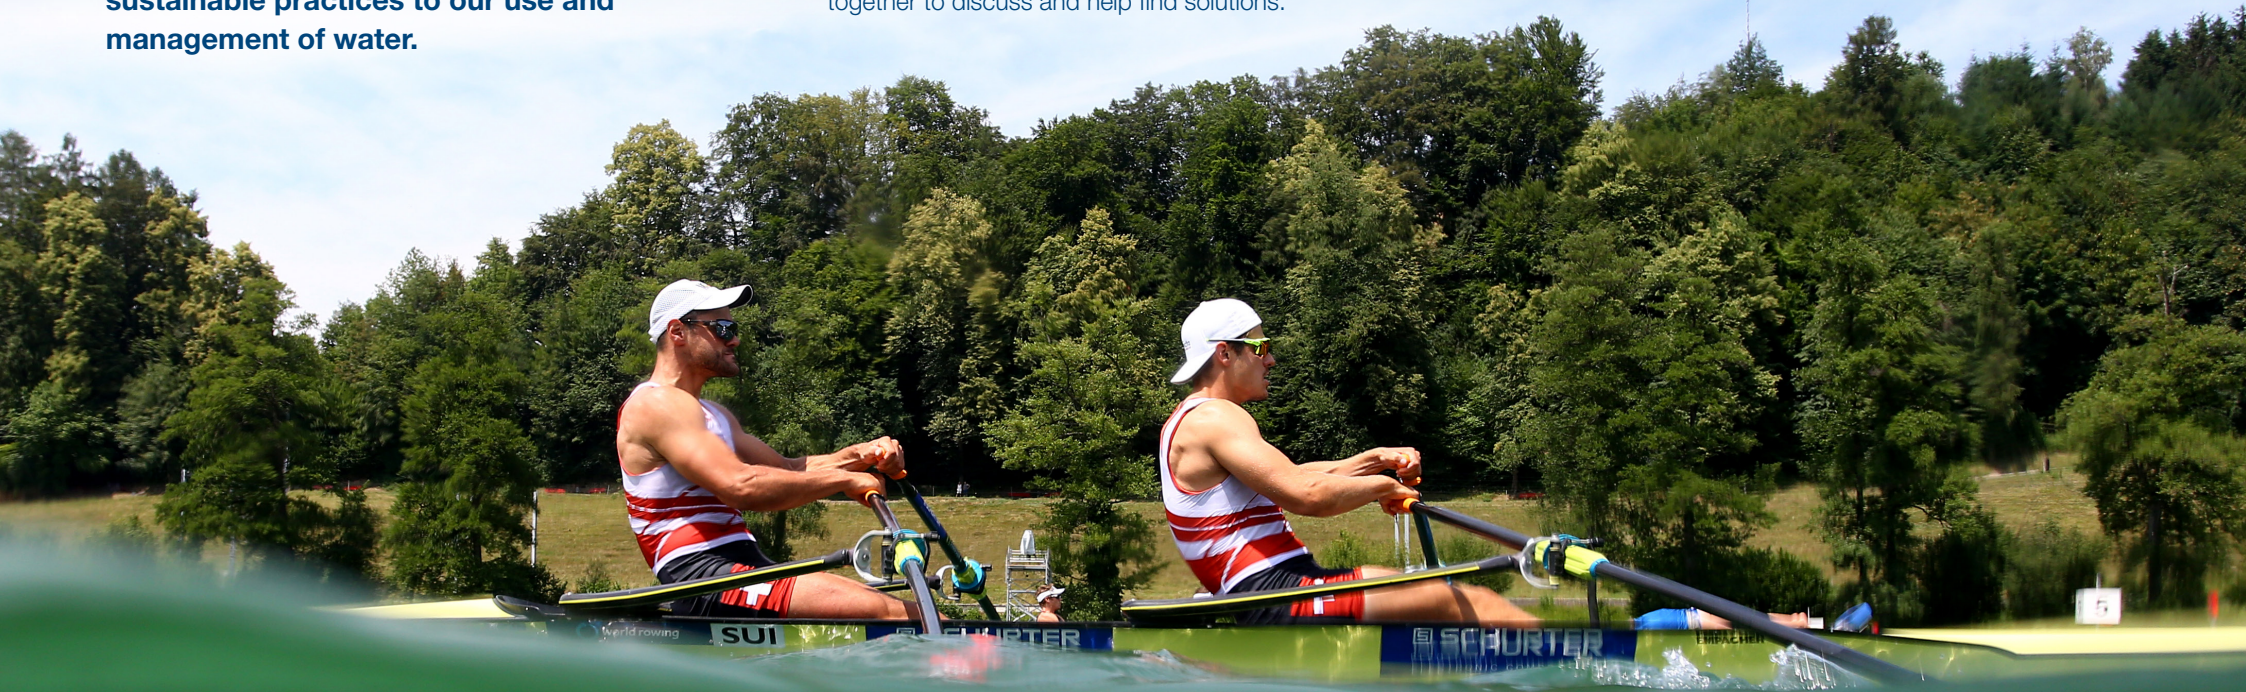

A joint action project, the Kafue River & Rowing Centre is a manifestation of this partnership. This project was inspired by the confluence of many pressures and problems in the Kafue River in Zambia and the need to bring all stakeholders together to discuss and help find solutions.

The development of a multi-purpose facility for water management education and research and the advancement of rowing in the region is underway. The global rowing community is at the forefront of a fundraising campaign to help establish the centre.

Donations are welcome

1 General

1.1 Introduction

Welcome to the 2019 World Rowing Championships. This event is the pinnacle of the season and the all-important Olympic and Paralympic qualification regatta. Athletes will strive to take the top spots throughout the event in order to qualify their boats for the Tokyo 2020 Olympic and Paralympic Games. At the regatta venue in Linz-Ottensheim, Austria, they will take yet another step toward their Olympic dreams.

The regatta course at Linz-Ottensheim was constructed on a protected arm of the Danube in the early 1970s. It was extended to eight lanes in 2006 and has since seen several international regattas.

International racing was last in Linz-Ottensheim just over a year ago, when the second World Rowing Cup acted as a test event for these championships. The course was also recently used for the World Rowing Under 23 Championships and regularly hosts local and national rowing regattas.

The 2019 season has seen some excellent racing so far with the World Rowing Cup series and the European Rowing Championships completed. The overall winner of the World Rowing Cup was Australia, who impressively competed in only two of the three-part World Cup series. Australia finished with 120 points, New Zealand came second with 103 points and China took the third spot with 95 points.

Australia's sweeping success culminated in the third World Rowing Cup when they won both the men's and women's pairs and the men's and women's fours. The men's and women's pairs are both new-look crews that will try to solidify their dominance at the World Rowing Championships. They will face serious challenges from the reigning World Champions from Croatia and Canada respectively.

The women's four is set for its first Olympic qualification regatta and the competition is fierce. The Netherlands won the first World Rowing Cup and the European Rowing Championships, Denmark made the best of the second World Rowing Cup and Australia took the win at the final World Cup. These countries will have to battle it out on the Danube for the top spots. The men's four has similarly seen a myriad winners. Australia, though, made the most out of World Rowing Cups II & III to win both.

The men's and women's single sculls have proved to be a toss-up. A clear front-runner is yet to emerge. Emma Twigg from New Zealand is making her comeback in the women's single. She won the second and third World Rowing Cups, but she has not yet gone up against the reigning World and European Champion, Sanita Puspure of Ireland. Switzerland's Jeannine Gmelin has also had impressive performances this season, along with Austria's Magdalena Lobnig and the Netherlands' Lisa Scheenaard.

In the men's single sculls, the young Sverri Nielsen of Denmark has come into his own. He won the second and third World Rowing Cups ahead of big competition. Olympic medallist Damir Martin of Croatia was back on the podium at the first World Rowing Cup and the other young gun, Oliver Zeidler of Germany became European Champion.

The lightweight double sculls has absolutely lived up to its reputation of providing razor-close races. The new German combination has emerged as the crew-to-beat on the men's side. They took gold at the second and third World Rowing Cups as well as the European Rowing Championships. On the women's side, the kiwis are probably the favourite crew after winning the two events in which they entered.

Rounding of the blue ribband events are the eights. The German men's eight was undefeated this Olympic cycle until World Rowing Cup III in Rotterdam. In tricky weather conditions, the British crew just managed to get the better of them. But Germany remains the reigning World and European Champions, and hold the World Best Time. The top spot in the women's eight is less secure. Each event saw a different gold medal crew this season: Australia, New Zealand, the Netherlands and Romania.

1.2 What is FISA?

The World Rowing Federation, FISA (from the French, Fédération Internationale des Sociétés d’Aviron), is the governing body of the sport of rowing. It is empowered by its 155 member National Rowing Federations, the National Olympic Committees and the International Olympic Committee, to govern the sport of rowing.

FISA sets the rules and regulations for the practice of the sport in all its forms (elite, para-rowing, coastal, masters and aspects of indoor). It organises sanctioned World Rowing events including those for junior and under-23s. It provides advice and expertise for the organisation of rowing regattas, coaching education, rowing development and other matters relating to the sport and its development.

In 2017 FISA celebrated its 125th anniversary. It was founded by representatives from Belgium, France, Italy, Switzerland and Adriatica (now a part of Italy) in Turin, Italy on 25 June 1892. It is the oldest international sports federation in the Olympic movement. FISA established its first headquarters in Lausanne, Switzerland in 1922 and, after moving away, it returned to its roots in February 1996.

FISA's vision

To encourage the development of the sport of rowing and strengthen the bonds that unite all who enjoy the sport.

FISA's mission

To make rowing a universally practised and globally relevant sport in all its forms. To effectively and efficiently govern, develop, showcase and promote the sport of rowing and respect and protect the environment when practising the sport.

FISA's Guiding Principles

- Priority to Rowers and Rowing: The interests, well-being and health of the rowers are always at the centre of our sport. FISA directs its work in the interests of rowers and rowing.
- Rowing in all its Forms: FISA recognises the value of the different forms of rowing that exist globally and that enable the sport to be practised by people of differing ages, abilities and training objectives. FISA seeks to both represent and develop all of these different forms of rowing.
- Equality of Opportunity & Fairness: FISA seeks to ensure fairness and equality of opportunity, both in competition and across all levels of the organisation.
- Inclusion & Non-Discrimination: FISA is committed to inclusion and accessibility, strives for gender equality and does not tolerate any form of discrimination.

2 Rowing

2.1 About rowing

The origin of rowing

The boat was mankind's most significant mode of transport for centuries and the oar is considered to be the most important invention before the wheel. The first representation of a rowing boat was discovered in Finland and dates back to 5,800 BC. The earliest regatta was held on 16 September 1274 in Venice, Italy, where regattas developed as challenges between gondoliers and boatmen in a variety of rowing boats. Rowing has evolved all over the world wherever people and water mix. The origin of the sport of rowing as we know it today comes from England, where the world-renowned Oxford versus Cambridge University Boat Race was first held in 1829 on the River Thames.

Rowing at the World Rowing Championships

The first World Rowing Championships was staged in Lucerne, Switzerland in 1962. Initially held every four years, the championships soon became an annual event. It is the biggest annual World Rowing event. The 2018 World Rowing Championships were held in Plovdiv, Bulgaria and 62 nations raced with more than 900 athletes.

Female boat classes were included on the World Championship programme in 1974, with lightweight categories for both men and women featuring annually from 1985. Last year the championship programme became gender equal with the same number of boat classes for men and women. Para-rowing was integrated into the World Rowing Championships programme in 2002. Originally raced over 1000m, in 2017 the length of racing changed to 2000m. In non-Olympic years, both Olympic and international boat classes compete at the World Rowing Championships, while in Olympic years only international (non-Olympic) boat classes take part.

Rowing at the Olympic & Paralympic rowing regattas

Rowing became an Olympic sport in 1896, at the first Olympic Games of the modern era held in Athens, Greece. Rough seas in the Piraeus harbour, however, forced the event to be cancelled which is why rowing won its first Olympic medals four years later in Paris. Women's events were added to the Olympic programme in 1976 and lightweight events in 1996. Para-rowing first appeared at the Paralympic Games in 2008.

The boats

Boats, or shells, were traditionally made from wood. Top level boats are now fabricated from composite materials such as carbon fibre and kevlar. The width of boats varies from approximately 30cm for a single scull and up to 65cm for an eight. Lengths of the different boat types are shown in the diagrams on p14. A small fin is fitted beneath the boat for directional stability. A rudder is attached to the fin or the stern for steering (except on most sculling boats). A white ball (bow ball) is attached to the bow for safety as well as for judging precision of the start and finish of races. A splashboard prevents waves from splashing water aboard. Seats are fitted with wheels which roll on runners or tracks.

The oars

Oars are hollow to reduce weight, attached to the boat by adjustable outriggers. The size and shape of oars is unrestricted, the average length of a sweep oar is 3.70m and of a scull 2.85m.

2.2 Glossary of rowing terms

Blade	Flattened or spoon-shaped end of oar or scull; sometimes used as term for oar
Bow	1 Forward end of boat, in terms of the direction the boat is moving in 2 The rower in the seat nearest the bow
Bow ball	Safety ball fitted to the bow end of racing boat
Boat class	The rowing event pertaining to the type of boat and gender eg men's single scull
Bow side/starboard side	The right hand side of the boat when viewed from the stern
Catch	The part of the stroke when the blade is put in the water
Coxswain/Cox	Person who steers the boat usually from a seat in the stern
Crab	Occurs when rower fails to get the oar out of the water at the end of the stroke, causing the oar to get caught in the water: "catching a crab"
Drive	The part of the stroke between the catch and the finish, when the oar is in the water
Feather	To turn the blade parallel with the water surface at the start of the recovery to reduce wind resistance
Finish/Release	The part of the stroke when the blade is taken out of the water
Layback	The amount of backward lean of the rower's upper body towards the bow at the finish of the stroke
Length	The length of a boat ("They won by one length")
Recovery	The part of the stroke cycle between the finish and the catch in which the blade is feathered and out of the water
Regatta	A competitive event raced in boats
Sculling	Rowing when each person rows with two oars

Slide	1 The parallel rails on which the boat seats move 2 The action of the boat seat with wheels on parallel rails
Square	When the blade is perpendicular to the water
Stern	The back end of the boat in terms of the direction in which the boat is moving
Stroke	1 The complete cycle of the oar going from the catch back to the catch 2 The rower seated nearest to the stern of the boat
Stroke rate	The number of strokes per minute that a crew is rowing, as in the number of times a blade goes in the water each minute
Stroke side/Port side	The left-hand side of the boat when viewed from the stern
Sweep rowing	Rowing when each person rows with one oar

2.3 Boat classes

Rowing boat classes are either sculling or sweep events. In sculling (denoted by an 'x'), each rower has two oars whereas in sweep rowing (denoted by a '-' for boats without coxswains and '+' for coxed boats) each person in the boat has one oar.

1 Entry/Catch

- Raise only the hands
- Do not “open” the body
- Enter the water before beginning the leg drive

3.2 World Rowing Championships competition description

The regatta

Races in Olympic, International and para-rowing boat classes are contested over 2000m. Depending upon the number of entries in each event, there will be heats, repechages, quarterfinals, semifinals and finals. A and B finals will be contested in all events with eight or more entries. Where 14 or more crews are entered, C, D, E etc. finals will be contested. Each boat is drawn into a first-round race (the heat) with progression to further rounds depending on placings and the number of entries in accordance with the FISA progression system.

Rowing follows a unique format in that crews have the benefit of a second chance if they are not successful in their first round heat. The repechage is the name for the second round of competition which ensures that every crew has a second chance to advance from the preliminary races to the next round.

Round 1	Heats – after the initial round of heats, every unsuccessful crew has a second chance to advance in the repechages round
Round 2	Repechages – second chance to advance
Round 3	Quarterfinals (only if an event has 25 or more boats competing)
Round 4	Semifinals (only for events with 13 or more boats competing)
Round 5	Finals – A, B, C, D... Finals (In principle, there are no more than six boats per final. The top six boats in the qualification rounds compete in the A-final, the following six in the B-final, etc. Only the rowers who finish in the top three places of the A-final win a medal)

Note: The rounds to which crews advance after each race and the number of crews advancing depends on the number of boats entered in each event as defined in the FISA progression system and is shown on the start lists and result lists. A full description of the progression system can be found in Appendix 6 of the FISA Rules of Racing.

Lanes

There are normally eight buoyed lanes, of which six are used at one time for racing. Each lane is 13.5m wide. A draw is conducted before the beginning of racing to determine the allocation of crews to heats and to lane positions within each heat. A seeding panel determines in advance which crews will be seeded. The purpose of seeding is to avoid having all the faster boats in a boat class being drawn into the same heat in the first round.

Competition schedule contingency plan

As for any outdoor sporting event, it is possible that the competition schedule may be disrupted due to adverse weather conditions. The FISA Rules allow for the implementation of certain contingency plans in order to ensure that the competition can be completed within the available days.

FISA has identified a number of contingency plans or options that can be implemented, depending on the severity of the conditions and the threatened disruption to the competition schedule. These include:

- Changing the start times of the races and/or the intervals between races.
- Combining different groups on the same day.
- Combining two rounds in the same day.
- Combining finals on three days, two days or all on one day.
- Time trials.

Dead-heat rules and procedures

If there is a dead-heat between crews, there are several options to resolve it depending on the round of the competition. In many cases, the tie is resolved by having the relevant crews row a 2000m race again in order to find a winner. If, in a final, there is a dead-heat both crews will be given equal placing and the next placing left vacant with no re-row. If the tied placing is for a medal position, additional medals will be awarded.

Crew changes

Up to half of the rowers in all crews entered may be substituted at least one hour before the first heat of the boat class. A crew which has already raced in the heat of its boat class may not make changes in the crew, except in the case of a serious illness or injury. A single sculler who entered and falls ill or is injured may be replaced before their heat. No substitution may be made for a single sculler after their first heat.

Penalties / disqualification rules / exclusion

The Board of the Jury may impose the following penalties: reprimand, yellow card (applying to the next round in which the crew competes), exclusion (from all the rounds of the event in question), relegation where this is specifically provided in the Rules (to last place in its race of that round), disqualification (from all boat classes in the regatta), or any other appropriate measure in order to assure the fairness of the competition. A crew arriving at the start after the start time or causing two false starts will be excluded. A yellow card is equivalent to one false start. Crews interfering with opponents during the race may be excluded by the umpire.

Women's Pair (W2-)

There are three crews that jump out as the most-likely medallists: Australia, New Zealand and Canada. Jessica Morrison and Annabelle McIntyre from Australia leapt onto the scene at World Rowing Cup II and finished just a few seconds behind the 2018 silver medallists, New Zealand's Grace Prendergast and Kerri Gowler. Morrison and McIntyre then won at World Rowing Cup III.

This Australia-New Zealand battle will continue. But neither of the crews have faced the reigning World Champions from Canada, Caleigh Filmer and Hillary Janssens. Filmer was out with a rib injury for most of the season and she is back in time for the world championships.

There are a handful of other combinations that are likely to fight for the medals. Spain's Aina Cid and Virginia Diaz Rivas are 2019 European Champions and they finished in the final at the third World Cup. Watch out too for the United States' combination of Megan Kalmoe and Tracy Eisner. They finished third at the second World Rowing Cup. Don't forget China, Romania, Italy and the Netherlands. They have all had top finishes this season and will be going for medals at the championships.

Men's Pair (M2-)

The top of the podium in the men's pair has been hard to call so far this season. The reigning World Champions, the Sinkovic brothers from Croatia are favourites to win again this year. They are the 2019 European Champions, but struggled with injury and illness and were not able to compete in all of the World Rowing Cups. Instead the top of the podium was claimed by two different line-ups in the Australian men's pair. But neither of the top Aussie line-ups have been entered in Linz-Ottensheim and instead the young Sam Hardy has been paired up with the more experienced Joshua Hicks. Without much time rowing together, it might be tough for these two to repeat the early-season Australian success.

That may leave room for New Zealand to find their way to the top of the podium. Thomas Murray and Michael Brake finished second at the second World Rowing Cup and third at the third World Rowing Cup. Watch out too for the Czech Republic. Their results have been sporadic, but they pulled off a silver medal at the third World Rowing Cup. And don't forget about Canada either. They only raced at one World Rowing event this season, but they finished with a bronze medal.

There are no clear frontrunners. The podium has switched, shifted and turned up-side-down throughout the season, underlining the impressive spread of talented crews in this boat class.

Most recently, Romania made the best in tough conditions at Rotterdam to win the third World Rowing Cup. Nicoleta-Ancuta Bodnar and Simona Radis of Romania also managed a silver medal at the European Rowing Championships, which may give them the upper-hand going into the World Rowing Championships.

But they will have to go up against the 2018 world silver medallists, New Zealand. The Kiwi duo of Brooke Donoghue and Olivia Loe won World Rowing Cup II. It was a close finish, however, with the United States' combination of Cicely Madden and Genevra Stone pushing them to the line. Australia took third.

Australia also managed to grab silver behind Romania at the third World Rowing Cup. These results indicate that New Zealand, United States, Romania and Australia should be headed for the final. But anything can happen. The 2018 World Champions from Lithuania didn't perform throughout the season, but they may have found their form by Linz-Ottensheim.

The Swiss combination of Barnabe Delarze and Roman Roeoesli have had a stand-out season so far. They finished with a silver medal at the European Rowing Championships before winning gold at the second and third World Rowing Cups. They are likely to be the crew to beat.

Great Britain has also shown top results this season. The combination of John Collins and Thomas Graeme finished second at World Rowing Cup II and third at World Rowing Cup III. They just missed out on the podium at the European Rowing Championships. Watch out too for Ireland. The young duo of Philip Doyle and Ronan Byrne came second at World Rowing Cup III. They have been climbing up the ranks and with a little luck, they could see a medal at the World Championships.

And don't forget about Germany. Former single sculler Tim Ole Naske has teamed up with the experienced Stephan Krueger. They finished third at the second World Rowing Cup and regularly raced in the final.

Women's Four (W4-)

Entries: 16

Olympic Qualification places: 8

The top crews have been switching places on the podium this season. The United States are reigning World Champions and they come to Austria with two of last year's gold medallists, plus the return of two-time Olympic Champion Caryn Davies and World Champion from the women's eight, Vitoria Opitz. The Americans will have tough competition from World Rowing Cup III winners, Australia. The Aussies finished second at the 2018 World Rowing Championships and have snagged two World Rowing Cup medals this season.

At World Rowing Cup II, Australia was bested by Denmark and China. Denmark has had scattered success in this boat class as part of their growing women's sweep programme. They have made slight changes to the line-up, hoping to pick up a few seconds of speed. And China raced at the first and second World Rowing Cups, finishing third and second respectively. Don't forget about the Netherlands. They won World Rowing Cup I and the European Rowing Championships. After a few line-up changes over the season, they seem to have settled on their combination for Linz-Ottensheim.

Men's Four (M4-)

Australia is reigning World Champions and this season they have been experimenting with different, yet equally talented line-ups. At World Rowing Cup II Australia won. The four did not race at the World Rowing Cup III when they seemed to be testing line-ups in the men's pair. The line-up entered in Austria has two returners from the 2018 crew: Alexander Hill and Jack Hargreaves.

Olympic Champions Great Britain has struggled to produce results this Olympic cycle, but their men's four has had some success, winning the European Rowing Championships ahead of Poland and Germany. Poland and Germany have also both posted results so far this season. Poland medalled at two of the three World Rowing Cups and took silver at the European Rowing Championships. Germany picked up a bronze at World Rowing Cup III and the European Rowing Championships.

The big question is, can the 2018 world silver medallists from Italy pull something out of the hat? Italy only raced at the second World Rowing Cup when they finished just a few seconds behind Australia, taking silver.

Emma Twigg of New Zealand is back. After becoming World Champion in 2014 and then finishing a disappointing fourth at the 2016 Olympic Games, Twigg took a few years off. But the pull of the Olympics had her take up oars again. Twigg won the second and third World Rowing Cups and is looking to be on her way to the World Championship title.

Twigg, however, won't have it easy. She will face reigning World Champion, Sanita Puspure of Ireland. Puspure won the European Rowing Championships, but did not compete at any of the World Rowing Cups. And the 2017 World Champion, Jeannine Gmelin of Switzerland is also a force to be reckoned with. Gmelin has two silvers from this season.

Watch out too for the return of Miroslava Knapkova-Topinkova of the Czech Republic. After a short break to have a baby, Knapkova-Topinkova is back and has been on the podium this season. And don't forget about local Austrian hero Magdalena Lobnig and Canada's Carling Zeeman. Both have snagged medals this season in this incredibly competitive field.

Men's Single Sculls (M1x)

Entries: 44

Olympic Qualification places: 9

With so many nations entered these scullers will have to go through heats, repechages, quarterfinals and semifinals to get to the finals. Stamina will play a key role. The best performer this season has been Sverri Nielsen of Denmark who won the second and third World Rowing Cups. However, Nielsen finished off the podium at the European Rowing Championships where Germany's Oliver Zeidler took gold. Zeidler is the young powerhouse, but his results so far this season have been inconsistent.

One of the most consistent athletes has been Pilip Pavukou of Belarus. Pavukou took silver at the first and second World Rowing Cups and finished in bronze at the European Rowing Championships. Then there's the reigning World Champion, Kjetil Borch of Norway. Borch has been working his way back from surgery and finished second at World Rowing Cup III. Watch out too for 2016 Olympic silver medallist Damir Martin of Croatia. Martin has struggled with injury, but seems to be finally back on form. He won the first World Rowing Cup and finished third at the third World Rowing Cup.

It is impossible to count out the veteran Ondrej Synek of the Czech Republic Angel Fournier Rodriguez of Cuba. Both are extremely experienced athletes, Synek with Olympic medals.

The Kiwis came storming onto the world scene at the second World Rowing Cup. Jackie Kiddle and Zoe McBride had seen some mixed results, but it looks like they've taken a turn. Kiddle and McBride picked up wins at the second and third World Rowing Cups. Their biggest challengers could be the Netherlands, Switzerland and China. The Dutch duo of Ilse Paulis and Marieke Keijser were not able to race together for most of season due to injury. But they finished with a solid silver medal at the final World Rowing Cup, showing their preparation for the World Championships is on track.

Switzerland's Frederique Rol and Patricia Mertz have been steadily climbing the ranks for the last two years. They narrowly missed out on Olympic qualification in 2016 and look to be set to better their performance. Watch out too for China. Their combination of Dandan Pan and Wenyi Huang medalled at two of the World Rowing Cups.

And don't forget about Belarus, they are the European Champions, but did not manage to get on the podium at any of the World Rowing Cups.

A new frontrunner emerged this season; Germany. The German combination of Jason Osborne and Jonathan Rommelmann won every event in which they were entered, becoming World Rowing Cup winners and European Champions. They are likely to have the psychological advantage going into the World Championships.

After fierce internal selection, the Irish have boated their new combination of Paul O'Donovan and Fintan McCarthy. This breaks up the previous brother-combination of Gary and Paul O'Donovan and also Jacob and Fintan McCarthy. The new combination finished second at the final stage of the World Rowing Cup and are likely to be very fast.

Italy has also boated their top duo, Stefano Oppo and Pietro Ruta. These two picked up two silver medals at the second World Rowing Cup and the European Rowing Championships. Watch out too for Belgium's Tim Brys and Niels van Zandweghe. They have been on the podium so far this season and have years of experience together. But the all-important number is seven. Who will fill the final spots for direct Olympic qualification? Perhaps it will be between Australia, New Zealand, China, Norway, Poland and Canada who have all finished close to the front-runners.

Many of these teams have not yet raced each other this season creating an element of mystery. China won the first two World Rowing Cups ahead of the Netherlands, Poland and Germany. They were not entered at the third World Rowing Cup when Germany managed to take gold, a feat they also managed at the European Rowing Championships. China's combination may have what it takes to best Germany at the World Championships, but it remains to be seen. The Dutch finally have their all-star crew back in the boat together after struggling with many injuries throughout the season.

Don't forget the World Champions, Poland. They were second to the Chinese and ahead of Germany at the second World Rowing Cup, but they finished in a disappointing fourth at the European Championships and behind Germany at the final World Rowing Cup. And keep an eye on Australia. They picked up a bronze medal at the third World Rowing Cup and have stayed in Europe to continue their training.

Poland could be the crew to beat. They won all three World Rowing Cups, despite many changes to their line-up. Then at the European Rowing Championships they finished back in the B-final. The rest of the field is difficult to call. The Dutch won the European Rowing Championships in style, then finished in third at the final World Rowing Cup in Rotterdam, where Germany took the silver. That was the only medal opportunity for the Germans this season.

Australia and New Zealand each took a medal at the second World Rowing Cup, but they were not able to repeat the performance at the third World Rowing Cup in Rotterdam. The results may have been difficult to read given the weather and the re-allocated lanes. Watch out too for Moldova. They won silver at the first World Rowing Cup and will be aiming to qualify their country for the Olympic Games.

The United States reclaimed the throne at last year's World Rowing Championships after losing it for the first time in over a decade in 2017. This shows nothing can be taken for granted. The US raced only once this season, at World Rowing Cup II where Australia won. The Australian crew has been working their way up the ranks. They took bronze last year and their World Cup win proves their early-season speed. But at the third World Rowing Cup, New Zealand made the best of the tricky conditions.

Going into the World Rowing Championships, the United States, Australia and New Zealand are all looking very strong. They will be up against top crews from Canada, Romania and Great Britain. These three were all on the podium at some point throughout the season.

Germany was unbeatable. That was until they were beaten by the British at the final World Rowing Cup in Rotterdam. There were several factors, of course, such as tricky weather conditions and lane re-allocation, but the British used it to their advantage to break the German winning streak. Will this give them the psychological edge going into the World Championships?

This race, however, is not just about the rivalry between World Champions Germany and Olympic Champions Great Britain. Canada competed at only one World Rowing Cup and finished in third. The United States has not yet shown their new crew, but they have been pouring energy into this boat for the Olympic Games. And don't forget about the Kiwi crew. They picked up a bronze medal at the third World Rowing Cup and have double Olympic Champions Hamish Bond and Mahe Drysdale on board.

4.2 International boat classes

Lightweight Women's Single Sculls (LW1x)

With 19 entries there will be great racing. Many of the top single scullers from this season are now in the lightweight women's double sculls, meaning the competition in Linz-Ottensheim is wide open. Watch out for Germany's Marie-Louise Draeger. She finished third at the final World Rowing Cup and has a long rowing pedigree. Keep an eye on Sweden's Emma Fredh. She is one of the most experienced scullers in the field. And Canada's Ellen Gleadow had an A-final finish at the last World Rowing Cup, she might just fight for the medals.

Lightweight Men's Single Sculls (LM1x)

The favourite must be Australia's Sean Murphy. Murphy won at the second and third World Rowing Cups ahead of tough competition. But the field is full of talent including Slovenia's Rajko Hrvac, who has years of experience and a small pile of medals. Watch out too for Italy's Martino Goretti. He has had sporadic success of the last few seasons. And, of course, don't count out Ireland's Gary O'Donovan. He will be looking to prove himself and work his way back into the double.

Lightweight Women's Quadruple Sculls (LW4x)

With just five entries the crew to beat might be China. They won the third World Rowing Cup ahead of Germany and the Netherlands. Italy and the United States have entered for the first time this year and add an unknown factor.

Lightweight Men's Quadruple Sculls (LM4x)

This boat class has eight entries and the competition is likely to be between Italy and the Netherlands. They each won one World Rowing Cup, then Italy got the better of the Dutch at the European Rowing Championships. Watch out too for France and Ireland. They both have solid line-ups and a history of success in the lightweight sculling category.

Lightweight Women's Pair (LW2-)

Italy may pick up another win in this boat class. Sofia Tanghetti and Maria Ludovica Costa recently won at the under-23 championships and despite their young age, they are some of the most experienced in the pair. Watch out too for Germany. They finished second behind Italy at the under-23 level and will be looking to finish one place better.

Lightweight Men's Pair (LM2-)

The crew to beat is probably the Czech Republic. Jiri Kopac and Jan Hajek have switched between sculling and sweeping, but have a handful of medals to their name. Watch out too for Italy, they have a history of success in the lightweight pair.

4.3 Para-rowing boat classes

There are four Paralympic boat classes going for Paralympic qualification places in Linz-Ottensheim.

Para PR1 Women's Single Sculls (PR1 W1x)

The favourite has to be Birgit Skarstein of Norway. Skarstein has been dominating this boat class for the last two years and is likely to be on top of the podium at the World Rowing Championships. But watch out for Moran Samuel. Samuel, from Israel, finished second at the third World Rowing Cup this year and is the 2018 world silver medallist. Also keep an eye on the young talent, Anna Shermet of Ukraine. Shermet has been rising in the ranks and most recently finished third at World Rowing Cup III. Then there's last year's world bronze medallist, Hallie Smith from the United States.

Para PR1 Men's Single Sculls (PR1 M1x)

A top seven finish will be the ticket to Tokyo, but with a record 27 entries, that will not be easy. There is no doubt, however, about the frontrunners. Ukraine's Roman Polianskyi will once again go up against rival Erik Horrie from Australia. Polianskyi and Horrie have been trading the top of the podium for the last few years and it is always a surprise who will manage to get the win. Watch out too for Russia's Alexey Chuvashhev. He is competing for the first time this season. Chuvashhev is the 2018 bronze medallist. And don't forget about Great Britain's Benjamin Pritchard, Brazil's Rene Pereira and Lithuania's Augustas Navickas.

Para PR2 Mixed Double Sculls (PR2 Mix2x)

There is no doubt about the leaders. Annika van der Meer and Corne de Koning from the Netherlands seem to be unstoppable. They are reigning World Champions, World Best Time holders and have won everything they have entered so far this year. As there are 12 entries and eight Paralympic qualification spots, nothing is a given. Watch out for Poland, France and Ukraine. They are regularly on the podium in this boat class. And keep an eye on the new combinations from Great Britain and the United States.

Para PR3 Mixed Coxed Four (PR3 Mix4+)

With an incredible 17 countries entered we will see many line-ups for the first time this season. The United States won the second World Rowing Cup, but the reigning World Champions, Great Britain were not entered. Great Britain is back and has made several changes to their winning combination. Watch out too for Italy and France. They have been working on their line-ups and finished second and third respectively at the second World Rowing Cup.

International Para-rowing boat classes

There are five international para-rowing boat classes being contested in Linz-Ottensheim; the para PR2 men's and women's single sculls, para PR3 men's and women's pair and para PR3 mixed double sculls. The Dutch are likely to win their respective races in the singles with Corne de Koning and Annika van der Meer having both set new World Best Times at the World Rowing Cup in Poznan. Although the return of Kathryn Ross from Australia will provide great competition.

Canada is the reigning World Champions in the para PR3 men's pair. They have not raced internationally yet this season, but are likely to be back on form. Italy will go up against the United States in the para PR3 women's pair. This race could be a close one. In the para PR3 mixed double sculls watch out for the return of 2018 silver medallists, Johanna Beyer and David Erkingen of Austria.
