1. Introduction

1.1. Introduction

Welcome to the 2010 World Rowing season. In our ongoing quest to reduce paper consumption, we are delighted to make this Annual Media Guide available, for the first time, on a CD. We hope that you will find this just as practical for your everyday use.

As always, this publication contains valuable statistical and historical data, as well as what we see as the most relevant current information about our sport. It has been compiled to respond to the growing need for the media to have access to the most up-to-date and accurate results and statistics to ensure that you can complete your work to ever tightening deadlines.

In addition to results and statistics, you will find the biographies of our top ten male and female athletes as well as the 2009 World Champions in adaptive rowing. More information can be found in the official World Rowing athlete database available on our website www.worldrowing.com (Athlete > Athlete Biographies Database). The athlete biography website is powered by www.rowingone.com, the most comprehensive rowing database in the world.

Throughout the season, the World Rowing Media Guide will be updated after each Rowing World Cup, and the updates will be available to all journalists present at these events as part of their press packs. The PDF document will also be online shortly before each regatta ready for download and, if necessary, printing.

We hope that this publication proves to be a valuable tool in your efforts to bring back news about rowing to your country. Please do not hesitate to contact any of the World Rowing team for feedback or suggestions on how we can improve this document.

1.3. 2009 World Rowing Season - Highlights

World Rowing Championships (Poznan, POL)

Over the two days of finals at the 2009 World Rowing Championships, one race after another presented exceptional and nail-biting incidents.

The women's pair was perhaps the most exciting race when six crews rowed neck-and-neck for 2000m crossing the line within four seconds of each other. The top three boats were less than a second apart. Susan Francia and Erin Cafaro of the United States triumphed at the finish and then went on to win a second gold when they joined their women's eight.

Great Britain's most medalled woman, Katherine Grainger, stirred up the tears of Sir Steve Redgrave in the final of the women's single. Grainger moved from team boat rowing to the single after the Beijing Olympic Games and had posted mixed results through the 2009 season. At Poznan, Grainger pulled it all together finishing second to the great Ekaterina Karsten-Khodotovitch. This race was also a landmark in being the final international race for China's top single sculler Xiuyun Zhang.

The men's single sculls race was full of familiar faces and ongoing rivalries that capture this event. Defending World Champion Mahe Drysdale was pushed to a new World Best Time in his successful defence of his title. Drysdale broke his own time by two seconds setting the new top time at 6:33.35.

The remarkable Vaclav Chalupa (CZE) announced his retirement from rowing at Poznan. This came after a 28-year rowing career which included six Olympic Games. Chalupa's swansong was in the men's coxed pair where he won silver behind the United States.

But perhaps the highlight was the excitement and joy felt when the Polish crowd got to witness their national heroes, the Polish men's quadruple sculls, crossing the line on their home waters in first place. After winning gold at the 2008 Olympic Games the crew stayed together as a team for 2009 specifically so they could race in their home country. Australia put up a huge challenge against the Poles, but at the line Poland prevailed.

Poland also sparkled in the women's double sculls with Poznan local Julia Michalska and partner Magdalena Fularczyk showing that Polish women rowers are holding their own. Michalska and Fularczyk became the first Polish women to become senior World Champions.

The Australian crews competing at Poznan arrived as unknown factors after Rowing Australia decided only to send crews to the World Rowing Championships. The seven crews, made up of a mixture of new blood and old hands, held their own winning medals in the men's four and men's quadruple sculls.

Germany improved in leaps and bounds through the 2009 season and it culminated for them in three World Championship titles – the men's double, men's lightweight four and the men's eight. The prize event, the eight, was led from start to finish by Germany over Olympic Champions Canada. The Canadians had retained just two rowers from their Olympic crew and thus seemed satisfied with the silver position. A photo finish between Poland and the Netherlands for bronze was awarded to the Dutch after much delay.

Five adaptive rowing events were raced and five new World Best Times were established. The arms and shoulders men's single sculls (ASM1x) was perhaps the most impressive with Paralympic Champion, Tom Aggar (GBR), breaking his own World Best Time by a huge 19 seconds.

The adaptive events included for the first time the legs, trunk and arms intellectually disabled mixed coxed four (LTAID Mix4+). This is in line with expectations of intellectually disabled athletes being readmitted to the Paralympic Games programme. Hong Kong China won the inaugural race.

Germany topped the overall medals table giving them a clean sweep of the World Championship events for 2009 – the junior, under-23 and senior World Rowing Championships.

Rowing World Cup Series (Banyoles, ESP - Munich, GER - Lucerne, SUI)

As is fitting for a post-Olympic year, the first Rowing World Cup, staged in Banyoles (ESP), was relatively quiet and full of new, promising lineups. That is, apart from the British team who used the event as a full-on launch pad towards the 2012 London Olympics. Great Britain virtually cleaned up the medals, winning an incredible nine out of the 14 Olympic events and within that they introduced their most medalled woman rower, Katherine Grainger, to international racing in the single sculls.

Grainger, who comes from her country's Olympic medal quadruple sculls, took to the single admirably and had a gold medal in her hands by the end of the weekend. The British women's pair, double sculls, quadruple sculls and eight also took gold with all, except the pair, being completely new lineups. The British men also excelled with gold in the pair, double sculls and four.

One of the few lineups that remained together after the Beijing Olympics is the Olympic Champion Polish men's quadruple sculls. Konrad Wasielewski, Marek Kolbowicz, Michal Kelinski and Adam Korol are looking to remain as a crew through the current Olympic cycle to London. This is no mean feat for a crew. Poland finished first in Banyoles, just ahead of Great Britain.

The Rowing World Cup season then moved on to Munich (GER), with the arrival of more countries and greater competition to the international circuit. Germany, in the final points tally, got their nose ahead of the British. This signalled the start of the German resurgence which went on to be a main feature of the year. After Germany's 2008 Olympic results and their low medal tally, the German Rowing Federation went about restructuring. They brought in new head coach Hartmut Buschbacher and were on a roll winning five gold medals, all of them won in Olympic events.

Munich was a turnaround for Great Britain. After completely controlling the World Cup in Banyoles, they managed only one gold medal in Munich. But this gold medal, in the lightweight women's double sculls, turned out to be a historic first World Cup gold medal ever to be won in this event by Great Britain. Sophie Hosking and Hester Goodsell were the recipients of this honour and went on to win the event again at the next stage of the Rowing World Cup.

Overall the bigger boats went Germany's way at Munich including both the men's and women's eights. A fair share of smaller boat classes were won by New Zealanders including the men's and women's pair. The New Zealand men's pair caused one of the bigger upsets by finishing ahead of Great Britain. Andrew Triggs Hodge and Peter Reed (GBR) came to Munich as the boat to beat and as the flagship British male crew. But Eric Murray and Hamish Bond (NZL) ruffled Triggs Hodge and Reed by winning with relative ease.

At the third and final Rowing World Cup on the fabulous Rotsee in Lucerne (SUI), Germany reconfirmed that they truly were back on form by earning points in 12 of the 14 Olympic events and winning gold in four of them.

One of the top races of the regatta was the men's double sculls. Four boats went neck-and-neck for the entire 2000m distance, finishing in a photo finish that had less than a second separating the four boats. Germany's Eric Knittel and Stephan Krueger took gold on the last stroke with France's Cedric Berrest and Julien Bahain ending less than a pinhead ahead of Allar Raja and Kaspar Taimsoo of Estonia. New Zealand's Matthew Trott and Nathan Cohen were just over a bow ball back, but out of the medals.

At the end of racing in Lucerne, Germany had finished first on the medals table, Great Britain second and New Zealand third. The New Zealand result was perhaps the most impressive as the small team of athletes won six medals from the eight Olympic boat class races that they had entered - four of the medals were gold.

Conspicuous in their absence from the 2010 Rowing World Cup series was Australia. The Australians decided to stay back in their own country just going to Europe for the World Rowing Championships. This was part of their rebuilding strategy as they enter the four-year cycle towards the London Olympics and also a cost-cutting measure.

Overall the Rowing World Cup series was won by Great Britain. After their complete domination of the Rowing World Cup in Banyoles it was almost impossible for any other country to catch up with them. Great Britain's final points tally was 213, well ahead of Germany in second with 145 points. Rowing World Cup points are awarded only in Olympic class events.

World Rowing Under 23 Championships (Racice, CZE)

Racice, Czech Republic, has hosted its fair share of top rowing events. Purpose-built in 1986 as an international rowing venue, Racice has seen the whole range from the junior championships through to the FISA masters regatta. It is also home to the Czech national team for certain periods of the year.

The World Rowing Under 23 Championships delivered a lesson in cooperation when a short but violent storm wrecked havoc in the boat yard at the start of the regatta. Eight boats were damaged beyond repair. The rowing community rallied and due to the overwhelming support, especially from the German Rowing Federation, all eight crews were able to secure alternative boats and continue to compete. The German federation earned a fair play award for their effort.

These championships, however, will perhaps best be remembered for the stunning clash of emerging rowing nations in the lightweight men's single sculls final. The event opened with the biggest number of countries entered – 31 – and ended with Mohsen Shadi Naghadeh of Iran winning against Ailson Silva of Brazil. For the first time in the history of World Rowing events the Iranian national anthem played at the winners' ceremony. Both Naghadeh and Silva went on to race later in the season at the senior World Rowing Championships, Silva finishing sixth and Naghadeh racing in the B-final.

The race that attracted the most crowd excitement was the final of the women's single sculls. When Czech Olympic double sculler Jitka Antosova, 22, came down the course the spectators erupted calling "Jitka" for the full 2000m. Antosova gave the crowd plenty to cheer about. She managed to shake off the very accomplished Carina Baer of Germany (winner of the 2008 junior single) and stay ahead of Estonia's Kaisa Pajusalu. Antosova's buoyed effort earned her the holder of a new World Best Time of 7:27.23.

The Italians impressed taking away six medals including the, not unexpected, lightweight men's pair. Andrea Caianiello and Armando Dell'Aquila of Italy have already won this event twice and also own a senior World Championship title. At Racice, Caianiello and Dell'Aquila set a new World Best Time of 6:32.01.

The newly introduced lightweight women's quadruple sculls attracted entries from nine countries. Germany took line honours after contending with a gutsy effort from the United States who boated a crew that had been together for just a couple of weeks. Australia came in third.

Germany finished the regatta in their usual fine form securing 13 medals from the 21 events. Five of Germany's medals were gold ensuring their spot as the top country overall at Racice.

This is the fifth year of the under-23's being a championship event and the standard continues to increase. The 59 countries attending, including Angola for the first time, represented the largest number of entries since 2005. The event continues to grow as an important stepping stone for future elite rowers.

World Rowing Junior Championships (Brive-la-Gaillarde, FRA)

Record numbers of top junior rowers descended on the Lac du Causse Corrézien for the 2009 World Rowing Junior Championships. The Lac du Causse Corrézien, near the town of Brive-la-Gaillarde in the Limousin region of France laid on perfect rowing conditions for all four days of the championships. Nearly 800 athletes came from 66 countries with the added incentive of these championships doubling as the first ever qualification regatta for the 2010 Youth Olympic Games.

The men's single attracted the largest number of entries with 36 nations competing. The final was a nail-biter with the lead changing several times before Germany's first timer at the international level, Felix Bach, came through from last position to win by half a second.

The men's double also attracted a huge turnout. Reigning champions Germany held onto their title. This year it was Hubert Trzybinski and Timo Piontek who took the prize.

Australia arrived with a fresh crew made up primarily of athletes selected through their talent identification programme and selected to compete at this regatta solely as a long-term prospect of building athletes for the 2016 Olympics. The Australian team, who came to this event with low expectations, surprised even themselves with their positive results which included a gold in the women's four. Great Britain and China finished second and third respectively in this event. Australia also did well in the women's quadruple sculls taking silver ahead of Germany. China won the event.

The Chinese looked to be in rebuilding mode. When China hosted the 2007 World Rowing Junior Championships on the rowing course in Beijing that would serve as the Olympic venue one year later, they all but completely dominated the regatta. In 2008 their energy went solely into the senior rowing Olympic team and they did not send any athletes to the junior championships. This year they were back with a team and back in the medals. Ting Cao took bronze in the women's single which was won by the very cool and collected Lisa Schmidla of Germany. Spain's most successful rower at this regatta, Virginia Diaz Rivas, finished second. China also took bronze in the men's single, women's pair, four and double and gold in the women's quadruple sculls.

Serbia's Igor Lucic and Luka Djordjevic came to this regatta knowing that they were quick as a pair. Unlike many of the athletes at this event, Lucic was at his fourth junior championships and Djordjevic at his second. The duo won their race in the men's pair. Behind them Greece and France finished second and third respectively.

The championships wrapped up with Germany winning seven of the 13 events.

To compete in the World Rowing Junior Championships, rowers must be 18 years or under. The World Rowing Junior Championships are partly subsidised by the FISA Masters Regatta which donates 1 Euro of every Masters Regatta entry fee for supporting youth rowing.

2. TOP ROWERS

To be eligible to appear as a 2009 Top 10 Male or Female rower, athletes had to have been active at elite international level in 2009 by taking part at the World Rowing Championships or at a Rowing World Cup. All-Time Olympic and World Championship results have been taken into account with a weighting to favour Olympic medals three times higher than World Championship medals. World Championship medals in international boat classes are attributed half the value of a World Championship medal in an Olympic boat class. Ranking is then sorted according to gold medal points, then silver, then bronze. Athletes are listed in order of ranking.

Competed as a gymnast until 1983
 COACH. After the 2000 Olympic Games she decided to take a break from the sport. However, she continued to coach the sport at a high school in London, Ontario, where she was teaching at the time. In 2006 she decided to make a comeback to the sport and re-joined the national team almost immediately. Attended the National Coaching Institute in Victoria, Canada in 1999 and assisted head coach Al Morrow at the 2000 Olympic Games. She has since involved herself with many teams, coaching them to success at various national and international competitions. FIT COX. She aims to have comparable fitness to the rowers that she leads. She feels that the fitter she is the clearer her head will be in pressure situations that might require her to make a race-affecting decision.

2.3. Top 50 All Time Medal Table - OG & WCh - all events

Note:

These Medal Tables weight Olympic medals three times higher than World Championship medals in Olympic boat classes. World Championship medals in international boat classes are attributed half the value of a World Championship medal in an Olympic boat class. This results in a number of Gold Medal Points that decide the sort order in the table.

Where athletes have the same number of Gold Medal Points, the ranking has been tie-broken based on Silver Medal Points and Bronze Medal Points.

Points system:

Olympic medal = 3 points

World Championship medal in Olympic boat class = 1 point

World Championship medal in International boat class = 0.5 point.

11. World Rowing Awards

11.1. Thomas Keller Award

The Thomas Keller Medal is the highest distinction in the sport of rowing. It is awarded to recognise an exceptional international rowing career as well as exemplary sportsmanship and legendary aspect.

Thomas Keller (Thomi) born 1924, was elected President of FISA in 1958, at the age of 34 and was then the youngest president of an international sports federation ever. At that time he was still an active athlete himself, and he made it his principle always to give priority to the competitors' interests, an axiom which has been a guiding principle for his beloved sport ever since.

Following the 1988 Olympics, Thomi Keller spontaneously awarded the FISA Medal of Honour to Peter-Michael Kolbe and Pertti Karpinnen to commemorate one of the greatest rivalries in the history of the sport and recognising their exceptional talent and sportsmanship. This shaped the idea of the Thomas Keller Medal which was initiated by the Keller family following Thomi's passing in 1989 and first awarded to the great Norwegian oarsman Alf Hansen in 1990.

Each year, the winner is carefully selected by the Thomas Keller Medal committee, after a broad international nomination process, to ensure that the true values which Thomi so strongly believed in are represented in this award.

11.2. FISA Awards

The World Rowing Awards are a series of four distinctions which each year honour the most deserving male and female crews, as well as the coach of the year and a special medal for distinguished services to rowing which rewards an outstanding contribution to the development of international rowing.

Nominations are submitted by FISA's Council, Commissions and Staff. The shortlist is selected by FISA's Council and then put to the Executive Committee and the relevant Commission Chair person for the final decision. The awards are usually presented to the winner during the annual Gala dinner which takes place during the Coaches Conference or the World Rowing Forum.
