AIGUEBELETTE, FRANCE 30 AUGUST – 6 SEPTEMBER 2015

Kafue
River & Rowing

#onwaterforwater

Pollution, industry, agriculture, seasonal flooding, damming, hydropower, and drinking water scarcity. Our planet faces many critical and complex water challenges.

The Kafue River in Zambia faces them all.

Inspired by the confluence of so many pressures and problems on the Kafue River, World Rowing and the WWF are creating an extraordinary multi-purpose facility for world-class water management research and the sport of rowing: The Kafue River & Rowing Centre.

Freshwater researchers from around the world and local stakeholders from industry, agriculture and the local community will use the Centre to conduct research, study problems, find solutions, and share their results, and Zambia will have a high quality Centre to develop the sport of rowing.

We will all be able to visit the Centre “virtually” and interact with the researchers there via the Centre’s website. Research will be shared openly, benefitting the world as a whole. The Centre, through its website in effect becomes a delta, distributing the output and benefits of the project to the wider world and inspiring others to create change in their own communities.

The global rowing community will be at the forefront of support for the Centre, and a group of high-profile world-class rowers will be spokes persons to tell the wider world how we all will benefit.

Let’s embark on a truly unique, landmark project. One that engages and empowers the local people, shares ground-breaking research and promotes the sport of rowing to people the world over.

Because to help the Kafue is to help the world.

1.1 Introduction

Welcome to rowing's most important regatta of the year and the culmination of a season of racing, the World Rowing Championships. This year's championships it is the most important of the four-year Olympic cycle as it also acts as the Qualification Regatta for the Rio 2016 Olympic and Paralympic Games.

Athletes will not only be going after World Championship medals, but they will also be aiming to qualify their boat for Rio 2016. Depending in the number of qualification positions, this can see the B-finals taking on a whole new meaning. For example coming fifth in the B-final of the men's double sculls will mean an Olympic spot has been secured. Read more about qualification on page 18.

The beautiful Lake Aiguebelette makes for a splendid setting for this year's regatta and is a favourite venue for many rowers. There will be nearly 1300 athletes from 77 countries – a World Championship record turnout – competing in 27 boat classes. This makes for eight days of racing with the finals spread over the last four days in the Olympic, International and Para-rowing boat classes.

New Zealand comes to Aiguebelette as the winners of the 2015 World Rowing Cup series and they have entered 16 boats. The United States are fielding the largest team with a boat in all 27 boat classes. Great Britain and Germany are both sending 25 crews.

The men's single sculls has attracted the largest number of boats with 41 countries entered. The women's single sculls, with 35 entries, is best represented women's boat class.

This media guide has been designed to bring as much of the essential information as possible together in one useful place. The guide includes background information to our sport including diagrams to explain how rowing works. There is statistical information on the current season and past results and a 'Who to watch' preview of selected boat classes.

The World Rowing website www.worldrowing.com is the hub for all rowing information and we have included a description on finding your way around the website.

To you, the media, we wish to extend a warm welcome to Lake Aiguebelette and World Rowing hopes that you enjoy this very special event. We appreciate your interest in and enthusiasm for our sport and as suppliers of rowing information to the world, we want to help you have a great experience. We welcome any feedback on the services provided.

1.2 What is FISA?

FISA, 'Fédération Internationale des Sociétés d'Aviron' in French, or more commonly called, the World Rowing Federation, is the governing body of the sport of rowing. It is empowered by its 142 member National Rowing Federations, the National Olympic Committees and the International Olympic Committee to govern the sport of rowing.

FISA sets the rules and regulations for the practice of the sport in all of its forms (elite, para-rowing, masters, under-23, junior, university, coastal and indoor), and organises sanctioned World Rowing events. It also provides advice and expertise for the organisation of rowing regattas, on coaching education and other matters relating to the sport and its development.

FISA was founded by representatives from Belgium, France, Italy, Switzerland and Adriatica (now a part of Italy) in Turin on June 25, 1892. It is the oldest international sports federation in the Olympic movement. FISA established its first headquarters in Lausanne, Switzerland in 1922 and, after moving away, it returned to its roots in February 1996.

FISA's goals and objectives

The goals and objectives of FISA are to efficiently develop, promote, present and govern the sport of rowing.

FISA's vision

To encourage the development of the sport of rowing and strengthen the bonds that unite those who practise it.

FISA's mission

To make rowing a universally practised and globally relevant sport. To spread the sport in all its forms.

Core values

Core values of rowing

Teamwork:	Rowers work together towards a common goal
Fairness:	In a spirit of fair play rowers learn self-discipline and the need for commitment.
Enduring:	Rowers transmit time-honoured values and shared experiences from past to future generations.
Inclusive:	Rowers combine into a single and cooperative community, irrespective of race, gender, creed, age or ability.
Natural:	Rowers respect and safeguard the water and its surroundings.

Core values of FISA

Oldest:	Created in June 1892, FISA was the first International Federation in the Olympic Movement and has been on the Olympic Games programme since the first Games of 1896
Global:	FISA has member federations in all five continents
Influential:	FISA has key representatives in leadership positions in many international sports organisations and governing bodies
Ethical:	FISA is a leader in the fight against doping in sport and was the first International Federation to conduct out-of-competition doping controls
Environmental:	Rowers respect and safeguard the water and its surroundings

FISA's environmental policy

Care of the environment is an integral part of rowing's core values and shapes FISA's strategy in all areas of its activities.

FISA is committed to practices that respect and safeguard the environment in which the sport of rowing is conducted. FISA endorses responsible and sustainable environmental practices in the planning and staging of events, the design and construction of new rowing facilities and the refurbishment of existing rowing facilities. FISA promotes awareness and community consultation on rowing-related environmental issues.

FISA's Environmental Policy is based on seven principles. These cover:

- 1 Habitat protection
- 2 Resource conservation
- 3 Waste and pollution reduction
- 4 Heritage and indigenous culture recognition
- 5 Healthy conditions for all associated with rowing
- 6 Environmental awareness and education
- 7 Consultation with wider community

FISA is actively developing new strategies to fully engage itself in the promotion of clean water and the protection of the environment.

FISA at events

FISA activities during international events:

- The Umpiring Commission, chaired by Patrick Rombaut \(Belgium\), supervises and advises the jury
- The Events Commission, chaired by Mike Tanner \(Hong Kong China\), oversees the preparation, technical aspects and running of the regatta
- The Competitive Commission, chaired by Rosie Mayglothling \(Great Britain\), is in charge of competition regulation such as the fairness committee and coach support
- The Sports Medicine Commission, chaired by Alain Lacoste \(France\), oversees all medical aspects of the competition, including anti-doping
- FISA's Executive Director Matt Smith represents the Executive Committee in overseeing the operation of the event

2. Rowing

2.1 About rowing

The origin of rowing

The boat was mankind's most significant mode of transport for centuries and the oar is considered to be the most important invention before the wheel. The first representation of a rowing boat was discovered in Finland and dates back to 5,800 BC. The earliest regatta was held on 16 September 1274 in Venice, Italy, where regattas developed as challenges between gondoliers and boatmen in a variety of rowing boats. Rowing has evolved all over the world wherever people and water mix. However, the origin of the sport of rowing as we know it today comes from England, where the world-renowned Oxford versus Cambridge University Boat Race was first held in 1829 on the River Thames.

Rowing at the World Rowing Championships

The first World Rowing Championships were staged in Lucerne, Switzerland in 1962. Initially held every four years, the championships soon became an annual event. It is the biggest annual World Rowing event, often with around 1,000 athletes and 60 nations entered.

In non-Olympic years, both Olympic and international boat classes compete at the World Rowing Championships, while in Olympic years only international boat classes take part.

Female boat classes were included on the World Championship programme in 1974, with lightweight categories for both men and women featuring annually from 1985. Para-rowing was integrated into the World Rowing Championships programme for the first time in 2002 and has attracted an increasing number of participants ever since.

Rowing at the Olympic & Paralympic rowing regattas

Rowing became an Olympic sport in 1896, at the first Olympic Games of the modern era held in Athens, Greece. However, rough seas in the Piraeus harbour forced the event to be cancelled, which is why rowing won its first Olympic medals four years later in 1900, on the outskirts of Paris. Women's events were added to the Olympic programme in 1976 and lightweight events in 1996. Para-rowing first appeared at the Paralympic Games in 2008.

2.2 Boat classes

Rowing events are either sculling or sweep events. In sculling (denoted by an 'x'), each rower has two oars whereas in sweep rowing (denoted by a '-' for boats without coxswains and '+' for coxed boats) each person in the boat has one oar.

8 rowers with cox
 Average length: 19.9 m (62 ft)
 Minimum weight: 96 kg (221 lbs)
 Olympic Events: W8+, M8+

2.3 How to row

1 Entry/Catch

- Raise only the hands
- Do not “open” the body
- Enter the water before beginning the leg drive

2 Drive No. 1

- Almost no change in the body position
- The body is “hanging” on the oar and footstretcher
- Work is done exclusively by the legs

3 Drive No. 2

- Upper body slowly takes over the leg drive
- The body starts to “uncoil” in a natural way

4 Drive No. 3

- Legs almost finish their work
- The upper body still continues its swing
- The arms begin their work

5 Drive No. 4

- End of the “layback”
- The arms move quickly and strongly to the body

6 Finish/Release

- Forearms and hands move oar handles down and around in a fluid continuous manner, releasing the oars from the water

7 Recovery No.1

- Hands move away from the body at a constant speed

8 Recovery No.2

- At the beginning of the slide, arms are past the knees
- There is early forward body angle preparation

9 Recovery No.3

- The slide is at half-way
- The arms and upper body have finished reaching out

10 Before Entry

- Last part of the slide
- All movements are finished except continuation of slide with concentration on a direct entry

2.4 Glossary of rowing terms

Blade	Flattened or spoon-shaped end of oar or scull; sometimes used as term for oar
Bow	1 Forward end of boat, in terms of the direction the boat is moving in. 2 The rower in the seat nearest the bow
Bow ball	Safety ball fitted to the bow end of racing boat
Boat class	The rowing event pertaining to the type of boat and gender eg men's single scull
Bow side/starboard side	The right hand side of the boat when viewed from the stern
Catch	The part of the stroke when the blade is put in the water
Coxswain/Cox	Person who steers the boat usually from a seat in the stern
Crab	Occurs when rower fails to get the oar out of the water at the end of the stroke, causing the oar to get caught in the water: "catching a crab"
Drive	The part of the stroke between the catch and the finish, when the oar is in the water
Feather	To turn the blade parallel with the water surface at the start of the recovery to reduce wind resistance
Finish/Release	The part of the stroke when the blade is taken out of the water
Layback	The amount of backward lean of the rower's upper body towards the bow at the finish of the stroke
Length	The length of a boat ("They won by one length")
Recovery	The part of the stroke cycle between the finish and the catch in which the blade is feathered and out of the water
Regatta	A competitive event raced in boats
Sculling	Rowing when each person rows with two oars
Slide	1 The parallel rails on which the boat seats move 2 The action of the boat seat with wheels on parallel rails
Square	When the blade is perpendicular to the water
Stern	The back end of the boat in terms of the direction in which the boat is moving
Stroke	1 The complete cycle of the oar going from the catch back to the catch. 2 The rower seated nearest to the stern of the boat
Stroke rate	The number of strokes per minute that a crew is rowing, as in the number of times a blade goes in the water each minute
Stroke side/Port side	The left-hand side of the boat when viewed from the stern
Sweep rowing	Rowing when each person rows with one oar

3.3 World Rowing Championships competition description

The boats

Boats or shells were traditionally made from wood, but top level boats are now fabricated from composite materials such as Carbon-fibre and Kevlar. The width of boats varies from approximately 30 cm for a single scull and up to 65 cm for an eight. A small fin is fitted beneath the boat for directional stability. A rudder is attached to the fin or the stern for steering (except on some sculling boats). A white ball (bowball) is attached to the bow for safety as well as for judging precision of the start and finish of races. A splashboard prevents waves from splashing water aboard. Seats are fitted with wheels which roll on runners or tracks.

The oars

Oars are hollow to reduce weight, attached to the boat by adjustable outriggers. Carbon-fibre is the main material used. The size and shape of oars is unrestricted, the average length of a sweep oar is 3.70m and of a scull 2.85m.

The regatta

Races in Olympic and international boat classes are contested over 2,000m on a 6-lane course while para-rowing events are raced over 1,000m. Depending upon the number of entries in each event, there will be heats, repechages, quarterfinals, semifinals and finals. A and B finals will be contested in all events with eight or more entries. Where 14 or more crews are entered, C, D, E etc. finals will be contested. Each boat is drawn into a first-round race (the heat) with progression to further rounds depending on placings and the number of entries in accordance with the FISA progression system.

Rowing follows a unique format in that crews have the benefit of a second chance if they are not successful in their first round heat. The repechage is the name for the second round of competition which ensures that every crew has a second chance to advance from the preliminary races to the next round.

Round 1	Heats – after the initial round of heats, every unsuccessful crew has a second chance to advance in the repechages round.
Round 2	Repechages – second chance to advance.
Round 3	Quarterfinals (only if an event has 25 or more boats competing)
Round 4	Semifinals (only for events with 13 or more boats competing)
Round 5	Finals – A, B, C, D finals (In principle, there are no more than six boats per final. The top six boats in the qualification rounds compete in the A-final, the following six in the B-final, etc. Only the rowers who finish in the top three places of the A-final win a medal.)

Note: The rounds to which crews advance after each race and the number of crews advancing depends on the number of boats entered in each event as defined in the FISA progression system and is shown on the start lists and result lists. A full description of the progression system can be found in Appendix 6 of the FISA Rules of Racing.

Lanes

There are normally eight buoyed lanes, of which six are used at one time for racing. Each lane is 13.5m wide. A draw is conducted before the beginning of racing to determine the allocation of crews to heats and to lane positions within each heat. A seeding panel determines in advance which crews will be seeded. The purpose of seeding is to avoid having all the faster boats in a boat class being drawn into the same heat in the first round.

Dead-heat rules and procedures

If there is a dead-heat between crews, there are several options to resolve it depending on the round of the competition. In many cases, the tie is resolved by having the relevant crews row a 2,000 m race again in order to find a winner. If, in a final, there is a dead-heat both crews will be given equal placing and the next placing left vacant with no re-row. If the tied placing is for a medal position, additional medals will be awarded.

Competition schedule contingency plan

As for any outdoor sporting event, it is possible that the competition schedule may be disrupted due to adverse weather conditions. The FISA Rules allow for the implementation of certain contingency plans in order to ensure that the competition can be completed within the available days.

FISA has identified a number of contingency plans or options that can be implemented, depending on the severity of the conditions and the threatened disruption to the competition schedule. These include:

- Changing the start times of the races and/or the intervals between races.
- Combining different groups on the same day.
- Combining two rounds in the same day.
- Combining finals on three days, two days or all on one day.
- Time trials

Crew changes

Up to half of the rowers in all crews entered may be substituted at least one hour before the first heat of the boat class. A crew which has already raced in the heat of its boat class may not make changes in the crew, except in the case of a serious illness or injury. A single sculler who entered and falls ill or is injured may be replaced before their heat. No substitution may be made for a single sculler after their first heat.

Penalties / disqualification rules / exclusion

The Board of the Jury may impose the following penalties: reprimand, yellow card (applying to the next round in which the crew competes), exclusion (from all the rounds of the event in question), relegation where this is specifically provided in the Rules (to last place in its race of that round), disqualification (from all boat classes in the regatta), or any other appropriate measure in order to assure the fairness of the competition. A crew arriving at the start after the start time or causing two false starts will be excluded. A yellow card is equivalent to one false start. Crews interfering with opponents during the race may be excluded by the umpire.

3.4 Qualification for the Rio 2016 Olympic and Paralympic Games

Olympic Qualification:

For each Olympic boat class, the highest placed National Federation according to the number of quota places indicated below will qualify for the Rio 2016 Olympic Games:

Boat Class	Men	Men Lightweight	Women	Women Lightweight
Single Sculls(1x)	9	–	9	–
Pair (2-)	11	–	11	–
Double Sculls (2x)	11	11	11	11
Four (4-)	11	11	–	–
Quadruple Sculls (4x)	8	–	5	–
Eights (8+)	5	–	5	–

Paralympic Qualification:

The eight highest ranked boats in each of the following medal events will qualify for the Rio 2016 Paralympic Games.

- Para men's single sculls (ASM1x)
- Para women's single sculls (ASW1x)
- Para mixed double sculls (TAMix2x)
- Para mixed coxed four (LTAMix4+)

3.5 Rowing in France

Boating became a popular leisure activity in France in the 1800s, with the first races for rowboats staged in Paris in 1834. During that time, many artists also developed a passion for the sport and contributed to its popularity through their works. Within a few years, 2,000 rowboats and 30 boatyards could be tallied in the French capital. This trend quickly spread to other major French cities.

In 1838, the Société des Régates du Havre was the first regatta society to be established in France. Other societies were progressively founded around the country in the following years, their mission being to organise regattas and regulate competition. By the mid-1800s, boat construction regulations had also been elaborated and boat classes had been defined.

The creation of a national federation was somewhat delayed by the existence of several provincial federations that each had their own rules of racing in the late 1800s. But in 1890, three of these federations signed a "truce" to create the French Rowing Federation, making it possible to organise the first national championships. Two years later, the French federation became one of the four founding nations of FISA, the World Rowing Federation.

Throughout the 1900s, the French federation set up a national training structure to help develop its national rowing team with the aim of medalling internationally. The results of decade-long efforts became apparent in the 1990s. Since then, the French team has claimed 64 World Championship medals, including 19 golds.

The 1996 Atlanta Games was France's most successful to date. Four Olympic medals were claimed by French athletes at that Olympic Rowing Regatta. The Sydney 2000 Olympic Games marked another milestone in French rowing when they won their first Olympic gold medal in nearly 50 years. Two crews won gold: the men's pair of Jean-Christophe Rolland and Michel Andrieux as well as the lightweight men's four. Rolland is now president of FISA. France also won bronze in the lightweight men's double sculls. At the Athens 2004 Games, France won Olympic gold again, this time in the men's double sculls with Sebastien Vieilledent and Adrien Hardy.

At the London 2012 Olympic Games, Germain Chardin and Dorian Mortelette won silver in the men's pair. Four years earlier, they were part of the men's four that rowed to Olympic bronze in Beijing. Chardin and Mortelette also claimed the World Championship title in the men's four in 2010 and took world silver in the men's pair in 2013.

In the past 15 years, France has been strong in the lightweight men's double sculls. Olympic bronze was won in 2000 and Olympic silver in 2004. Jeremie Azou and Stany Delayre are currently having success in the double. So far in 2015 they remain unbeaten.

In addition to Olympic style rowing, France also has a strong following in tour rowing, coastal rowing and corporate rowing. There are 405 rowing clubs in France with 43,000 licensees and 105,000 active rowers.

4.2 Who to Watch at the 2015 World Rowing Championships

Women's Pair (W2-)

This boat class remains the domain of the unstoppable British women's pair of Heather Stanning and Helen Glover. The duo have not lost a single race together since their Olympic gold medal at London 2012 and they've created a race plan that sees them lead from start to finish.

The only crew that looks able to rattle the British is the young New Zealand line up of Kerri Gowler and Grace Prendergast. Their enthusiasm has shown that Stanning and Glover cannot sit back and relax.

Also regular medal contenders is the United States. Although their line ups regularly change, the strength of the US women's sweep squad is well-known and for Aiguebelette head coach Tom Terhaar has put together two top rowers, Eleanor Logan and Felice Mueller to take on the British.

Keep an eye out too for the Netherlands. At the European Rowing Championships Elisabeth Hogerwerf and Olivia Van Rooijen chased the British to the line.

Men's Pair (M2-)

Unbeatable? Hamish Bond and Eric Murray, the New Zealand duo reign supreme. They are the Olympic Champions, multi World Champions and World Best Time holders and at the 2015 World Rowing Cup in Lucerne recorded their 57th straight win.

Great Britain's Matt Langdridge and James Foad may be the best bet to challenge the leaders. They are last year's world silver medallists and this year became the 2015 European Rowing Champions with a silver behind New Zealand at World Rowing Cup III in Lucerne. Crossing the line on the heels of the British boat in Lucerne were the Serbs Milos Vasic and Nenad Bedik. They also won a bronze medal at the European champs this year.

Watch out too for the Dutch boat of Mitchel Steenman and Roel Braas. The duo won the most World Cup points in 2015 in this event. They also took bronze at the World Rowing Cup in Varese and in Lucerne they finished fourth.

Lightweight Men's Double Sculls (LM2x)

France's Jeremie Azou and Stany Delayre have dominated this season coming to Aiguebelette unbeaten. But after they finished with silver at the 2014 World Rowing Championships, everyone knows the unexpected can happen. The 2014 winners, John Smith and James Thompson of South Africa have raced just once this season finishing second to the French. Their powerful sprint will no doubt be in the thoughts of Azou and Delayre.

Norwegians Kristoffer Brun and Are Strandli are the 2013 World Champions and have since medalled at each World Rowing regatta that they entered. In Lucerne they took bronze. With 33 countries entered there will also be challenges coming from Germany, Great Britain and Denmark.

Lightweight Women's Double Sculls (LW2x)

Great Britain's Charlotte Taylor and Katherine Copeland set a new World Best Time at the World Rowing Cup in Varese, but in Lucerne the duo were overcome by New Zealand's World Champion crew of Julia Edward and Sophie Mackenzie. These two boats are likely to form the leading clash.

Challenging them is likely to be South Africa and the United States. South Africans Ursula Grobler and Kirsten McCann finished fourth overall at the 2014 World Rowing Championships and this year in Lucerne they took silver behind New Zealand. United States rowers Devery Karz and Michelle Sechser won bronze at the final stage of this year's World Rowing Cup in Lucerne. Also keep Germany's Marie-Louise Draeger and Fini Sturm on the radar – they medalled twice this year so far.

Men's Four (M4-)

Traditionally the domain of the British, when head coach Juergen Grobler decided to prioritise the men's eight, the four became less of a focus. Still, Great Britain won the European Rowing Championships before the field opened up. Belarus won the first World Cup, United States won the second with Australia winning the third World Cup.

With this variety at the head of the field, it is anyone's guess who will win in Aiguebelette. But the above countries will certainly stand out. Add Canada to the mix as well as the Italians and the Greeks and you will have a race where the fight to get into the final is likely to be incredibly tight.

Women's Quadruple Sculls (W4x)

Germany has been calling the shots recently in this boat class. They own the World Championship title from 2013 and 2014 and also own the World Best Time.

Other podium contenders include The Netherlands, who took silver at the European Rowing Championships this year and bronze in Lucerne, as well as Poland who took bronze at the Europeans and silver in Varese. Look out too for Australia and the United States who were also in the mix of medals during the World Rowing Cup season.

Men's Quadruple Sculls (M4x)

When Great Britain beat Germany earlier this season, it opened the door to excitement and uncertainty in this boat class. The Germans are the Olympic Champions and after finishing third in 2014 they will be aiming to be back on top.

But watch out for the reigning World Champions, Ukraine. They raced once only this season, at the European Rowing Championships, and took silver behind Russia who took the European title. Look out too for Estonia. They were fourth at the 2012 Olympics and have been rebuilding their boat ever since. They took bronze in Lucerne while another medal contender, Canada claimed bronze in Varese.

Men's Double Sculls (M2x)

At the start of the season, Germany's top single scullers Marcel Hacker and Stephan Krueger were united to form their nation's double sculls combination. They won gold at the first leg of the World Rowing Cup in Bled and at the European Rowing Championships.

But at the second and third stages of the World Rowing Cup in Varese and in Lucerne the Croatian Sinkovic brothers won the gold. Martin and Valent Sinkovic are the reigning World Champions and World Best Time holders in the double and favourites to retain the title as so far this season their wins have been a picture of domination.

But there are three medals to be had so look out for Australia. They medalled twice this season, with James McRae and Alexander Belonogoff taking silver in Varese and bronze in Lucerne. They are last year's world bronze medallists. Keep an eye out for the powerful duo of Aleksandar Aleksandrov and Boris Yotov of Azerbaijan as well as Norway and Lithuania.

Women's Double Sculls (W2x)

New Zealand took gold at both regattas that they entered this year: World Rowing Cup II in Varese and World Rowing Cup III in Lucerne. Zoe Stephenson was part of the 2014 World Champion boat, and Eve Macfarlane joined her in the double this year.

The United States crew of Meghan O'Leary and Ellen Tomek finished sixth last year at the World Rowing Championships and seems on track to do well in Aiguebelette. They raced once so far this season, at World Rowing Cup II in Varese, and took silver behind New Zealand.

Australia's Sally Kehoe and Olympia Aldersey set a World Best Time at the 2014 World Rowing Championships and won bronze overall. This year, they finished fifth at World Rowing Cup II in Varese and then took silver at World Rowing Cup III in Lucerne.

Other boats to look out for include Poland, last year's world silver medallists, who earned the European Championship title this year. Lithuania, Great Britain and Belarus will also be aiming for medals.

Lightweight Men's Four (LM4-)

The dynamic of the Danish – New Zealand rivalry that built up last year is different. Both boats have had one crew change with New Zealand now looking to be the top boat. The New Zealanders won both races that they entered and found their greatest challenge coming from Switzerland who have brought their 2012 Olympic boat back together.

Denmark is still in the mix and France and Great Britain will also be vying for the medals.

Women's Eight (W8+)

The United States have not lost a single race in the women's eight in nine years. They set two World Best Times during this time and remain the clear favourites. Canada, however, will do all that they can to knock the Americans off the top spot. They are regularly the silver medallists. Watch out for New Zealand. They formed a new crew in this event and created quite a stir at the World Rowing Cup in Lucerne when they won silver behind Canada.

Russia presented a talented line-up at the European Rowing Championships where they crossed the line in gold ahead of The Netherlands and Romania. When racing at their best, Great Britain are podium contenders too.

Men's Single Sculls (M1x)

Mahe Drysdale, the reigning Olympic Champion, showed his ongoing form by winning gold in Varese and then dominating in Lucerne.

In Varese, Drysdale won ahead of Cuba's Angel Fournier Rodriguez and in Lucerne ahead of Lithuanian Mindaugas Griskonis. Fournier has seen increasing success in the single since the London 2012 Olympic Games. Griskonis is a three-time European Champion and this year he took silver in Lucerne ahead of two-time Olympic silver medallist and three-time World Champion Ondrej Synek of the Czech Republic. This has not been a great season for Synek, but his experience should pay off at the right time.

Watch out too for Alan Campbell of Great Britain and Damir Martin of Croatia. Both have medalled this season.

Women's Single Sculls (W1x)

Australia's Kim Crow has been absolutely dominating the field this season. The 2013 World Champion and 2014 silver medallist won both World Rowing Cup regattas that she entered in 2015.

Crow's main challengers include 2012 Olympic Champion from the Czech Republic, Mirka Knapkova, and Genevra Stone from the United States. Both have picked up medals this season.

Men's Eight (M8+)

Germany are the reigning Olympic Champions in this event, while Great Britain took World Championship gold twice in a row, in 2013 and 2014. They have been facing off all season and will do it again at Aiguebelette.

Hoping to get in on this two-way battle is the Poland and Russia with the young New Zealand and the United States, who took World Cup bronze, crews also knocking on the door.

4.3 Who to watch – International boat classes

Watch out for New Zealand's 20-year-old Zoe McBride in the lightweight women's single sculls (LW1x). She established a new World Best Time this year at World Rowing Cup III in Lucerne, Switzerland. McBride's toughest challenge is likely to come from European Champion, Imogen Walsh (GBR) and Brazil's Fabiana Beltrame.

Slovakia's Lukas Babac has collected two silvers and a gold this season and is looking in a prime position in the lightweight men's single sculls (LM1x). He will face 2014 World Champion, Marcello Miani of Italy. Watch out too for the promising Luka Radonic of Croatia and Great Britain's Jamie Kirkwood.

Great Britain has entered Joel Cassells and Sam Scrimgeour to push for medals in the lightweight men's pair (LM2-). They will face tough competition from Theophile Onfroy and Augustin Mouterde of France who have already medalled twice this season. Watch out too for Armando Dell'Aquila and Petru Zaharia of Italy. Germany, Italy and Turkey took out the medals last year in the lightweight men's eight (LM8+). They will do battle again this year.

It will be hard to look past the United States in the women's four (W4-) with names like Grace Latz and Grace Luczak in the boat. Great Britain may be the crew to challenge. In the men's coxed pair (M2+) the British crew of Nathaniel Reilly-O'Donnell and Matthew Tarrant with coxswain Henry Fieldman will be hard to beat.

France has slotted top sculler Pierre Houin into their lightweight men's quadruple sculls (LM4x). This will boost their boat as they face a crew from Great Britain who are made up mainly of their under-23 silver medal crew. Watch out too for Italy who regularly do well in this boat class. For the lightweight women's quadruple sculls (LW4x) Germany looks to be the crew to beat with Anja Noske and Lena Mueller sitting in the boat. But watch out too for reigning World Champions, the Netherlands.

4.4 Who to watch – Para-rowing boat classes

This year at World Rowing Cup II in Varese, Italy it was Israel's Moran Samuel who took the top spot in the para women's single sculls (ASW1x). Samuel already has world silver (from 2013) and world bronze (from 2011) to her name but she will be up against reigning World Champion, Birgit Skarstein of Norway. Look out too for Claudia Santos of Brazil who has been competing since 2007.

Reigning World Champion Erik Horrie of Australia currently dominates the para men's single sculls (ASM1x). He took gold this year at World Rowing Cup II ahead of Russia's Alexey Chuvashv and 2008 Paralympic Champion, Tom Aggar of Great Britain. Also watch out for the return to rowing of 2012 Paralympic Champion, Cheng Huang of China.

Australia is looking good in the para mixed double sculls (TAMix2x) with Kathryn Ross and Gavin Bellis the winners at Varese. They also have two World Championship titles. Challenging hard will be Josiane Lima and Michel Gomes Pessanha of Brazil. They finished with bronze last year. Also watch out for regular medallists, Perle Bouge and Stephane Tardieu of France.

The British have been the ones to beat in the para mixed coxed four (LTAMix4+), having not lost a race since 2011. Italy finished second in Varese and are also the 2014 world silver medallists. They will challenge Great Britain along with France who have a bronze medal from Varese.
