Our planet depends on clean water

Water is the lifeblood of our planet. It is essential in supporting human life, nourishing indispensable habitats and supplying agriculture and industry. In order to accomplish these crucial tasks, water must be kept clean. The amount and availability of clean water has become one of the greatest challenges of our time. World Rowing believes that we all have a responsibility to apply environmentally-sustainable practices to our use and management of water.

Rowing is a clean water sport and everyone involved in rowing has reason to protect this vital resource.

In 2011 World Rowing and WWF, the World Wide Fund for Nature, formed a global clean water partnership. This engages all rowers, rowing clubs and national rowing federations to work towards safeguarding their freshwater environments.

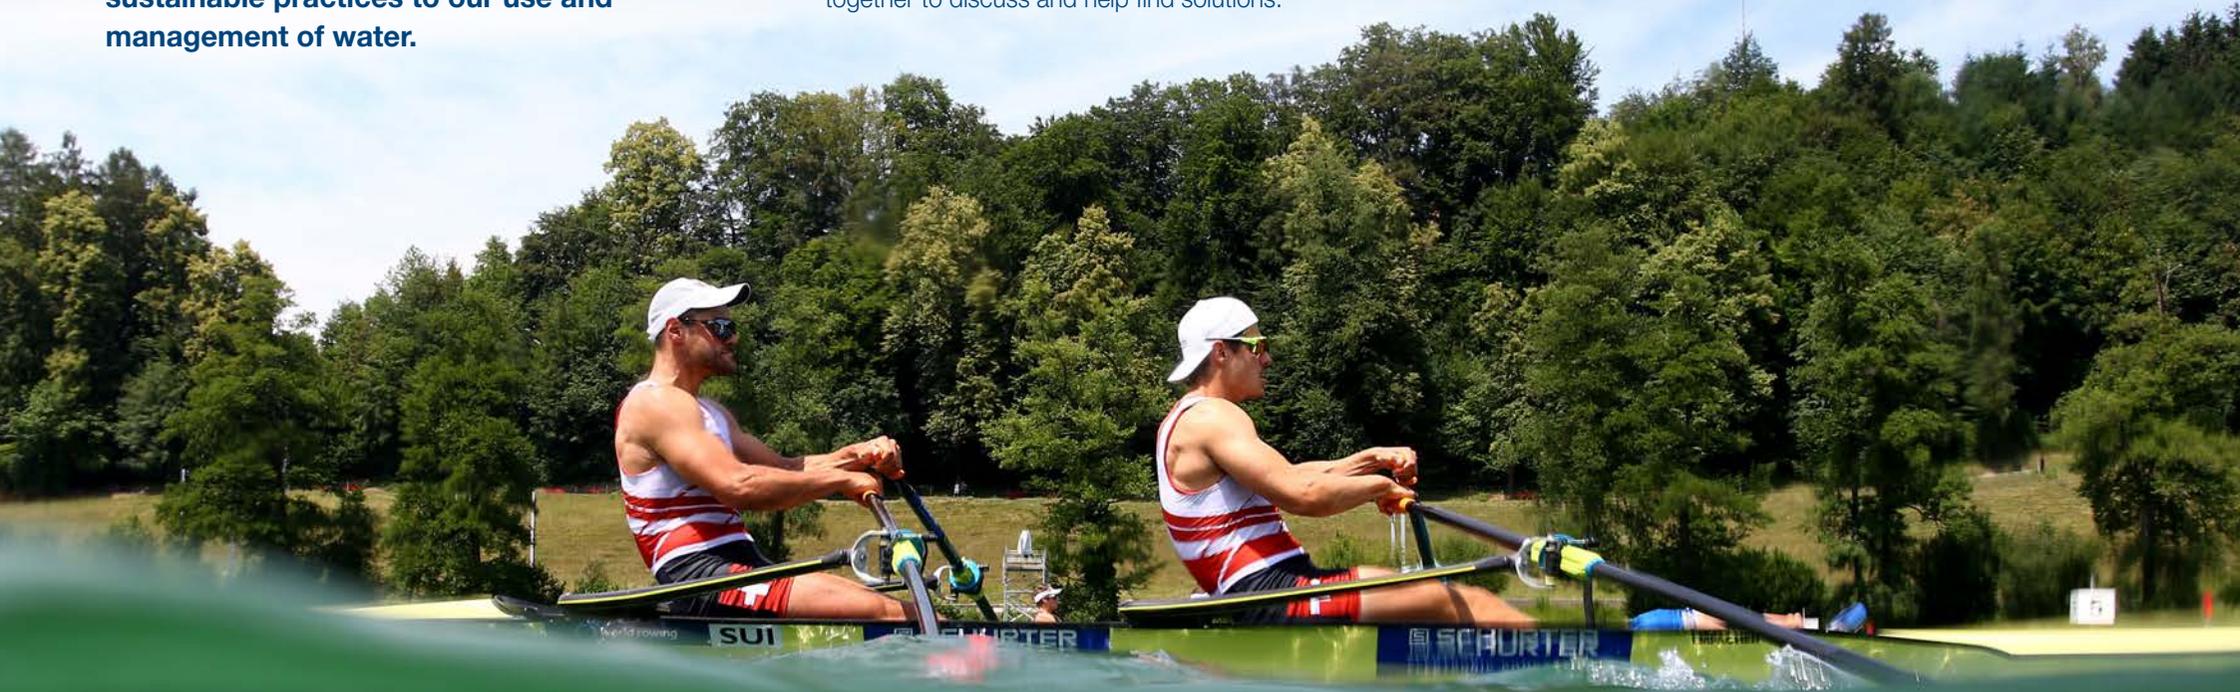

A joint action project, the Kafue River & Rowing Centre is a manifestation of this partnership. This project was inspired by the confluence of many pressures and problems in the Kafue River in Zambia and the need to bring all stakeholders together to discuss and help find solutions.

The development of a multi-purpose facility for water management education and research and the advancement of rowing in the region is underway. The global rowing community is at the forefront of a fundraising campaign to help establish the centre.

1 General

1.1 Season Summary for 2019/2020 and expectations for 2021

The anticipation for a rowing season has perhaps never been greater as fans and athletes move towards the 2021 season. After a sparse 2020 season due to the coronavirus pandemic, many athletes come into 2021 having not competed internationally for almost two years.

The 2021 season will begin where it left off in 2020: the European Rowing Championships. Looking back at the 2020 European Rowing Championships provides the only taste of international rankings from the 2020 season albeit European only. The event was dominated by the Netherlands when they took home eight gold medals. Italy and Romania each claimed four gold.

The Dutch winning streak started when Martine Veldhuis claimed gold in the lightweight women's single sculls. They also managed to capture gold in the lightweight women's double, men's double sculls, men's and women's quadruple sculls, and men's and women's fours.

The Dutch delight carried into the para rowing events when Corne de Koning and Annika van der Meer claimed the title in the PR2 mixed double sculls. But it was Ukraine that managed to pick up wins in both the men's and women's PR1 single sculls. Ukraine has qualified all four para rowing boat classes for the Tokyo Paralympic Games.

The 2019 World Champion, Sanita Puspure of Ireland continued her winning streak by capturing the European title in the women's single sculls. On the men's single side, world silver medallist Sverri Nielsen of Denmark pushed through to first with the reigning World Champion, Oliver Zeidler of Germany finding himself out of the medals in fourth. Natan Wegrzycki-Szmczyk (POL) and Kjetil Borch (NOR) were second and third respectively.

The 2021 season will progress from the European Championships to the World Rowing Cups and there is hope that we will see crews from outside of Europe re-join the international mix.

This means the last true world-wide rankings are from 2019. For the 2019 season, the World Rowing Cups were dominated by Australia who finished with 120 World Cup Points. New Zealand and China were next on the leader board with 103 and 95 points respectively.

These World Cup races set teams up for the all-important 2019 World Rowing Championships. The championships also acted as the main qualification regatta for the Tokyo Olympic and Paralympic Games. New Zealand, Italy and China showed dominant performances at these championships with New Zealand topping the medals table with four gold medals and six in total.

New Zealand's gold medal success was dominated by their women's team with wins in the women's eight, pair, double and lightweight double. Kerri Gowler and Grace Prendergast took gold twice by competing in both the eight and pair. Italy claimed gold medal success in the lightweight categories and China had their best-ever result at a World Rowing Championships with three golds and one silver.

Yet it was The Netherlands and Great Britain that proved most successful in Olympic qualification, with both countries securing ten boat classes out of 14 for the Tokyo Olympic Games. There is a final chance for teams to qualify for the Olympics with the Final Olympic Qualification Regatta taking place in Lucerne, Switzerland in May.

The Olympic Games are undeniably the pinnacle of the 2021 season, yet following the coronavirus pandemic, it is difficult to predict which teams will fare best as athlete experiences leading into these Games will vary so greatly.

With the Olympic and Paralympic Games taking place in July and August respectively, the 2021 season will then go to the World Rowing Championships in Shanghai, China in October. It will give non-Olympic athletes another opportunity to shine as well as Olympic athletes who come to race for world championship titles.

1.2 Olympic and Paralympic qualification - how it works

For the first time in its history, the Olympic Games will feature equal opportunities for both men and women in rowing with the same number of athletes qualifying in both genders. To even the numbers the women's four has been added in replace of the lightweight men's four.

There are a total of 206 boat quota places for the Tokyo 2020 Olympic Games. For the Paralympic Games, there are spots for 48 male athletes and 48 female athletes (This does not include coxswains. Coxswains may be either male or female).

The majority of qualification spots have already been attributed to National Olympic Committees (NOCs) and National Paralympic Committees (NPCs) through the 2019 World Rowing Championships. The remaining qualification events, along with the Tripartite and Bipartite Commission Invitations will determine the allocation of the final boat quotas through continental qualification regattas and the Final Olympic/Paralympic Qualification Regatta.

The Host country – Japan – is also guaranteed one place in each the men's and women's single sculls (if not already qualified) at the Olympic Games, and a maximum of four crew places (2 Men and 2 Women) at the Paralympic Games.

Following the 2019 World Rowing Championships, the remaining qualification events are (or were):

- African Olympic and Paralympic Qualification Regatta: 10-12 Oct 2019, Tunis, Tunisia
- Americas Olympic and Paralympic Qualification Regatta: 4-6 March 2021, Rio, Brazil
- European Olympic and Paralympic Qualification Regatta: 5-7 April 2021, Varese, Italy
- Asia-Oceania Olympic and Paralympic Qualification Regatta: 5-7 May 2021, Tokyo, Japan
- Final Olympic Qualification Regatta: 15-17 May 2021 in Lucerne, Switzerland
- Final Paralympic Qualification Regatta: 3-5 June 2021 in Gavirate, Italy

The Tripartite Commission (Olympic Games) will confirm the allocation of invitation places, two for the men's single and two for the women's single, after the end of the qualification period.

The Bipartite Commission (Paralympic Games) will confirm the allocation of invitation places, four male athletes and four female athletes, after the end of the qualification period.

The NOCs and NPCs that qualified boats at the 2019 World Rowing Championships in Linz-Ottensheim, Austria and at the African Qualification Regatta can enter different athletes from their original lineup. Athletes that qualify for the Games through the Continental Qualification Regattas or the Final Qualification Regattas must compete in that boat or not compete at all.

2.1 About rowing

The origin of rowing

The boat was mankind's most significant mode of transport for centuries and the oar is considered to be the most important invention before the wheel. The first representation of a rowing boat was discovered in Finland and dates back to 5,800 BC. The earliest regatta was held on 16 September 1274 in Venice, Italy, where regattas developed as challenges between gondoliers and boatmen in a variety of rowing boats. Rowing has evolved all over the world wherever people and water mix. The origin of the sport of rowing as we know it today comes from England, where the world-renowned Oxford versus Cambridge University Boat Race was first held in 1829 on the River Thames.

Rowing at the World Rowing Championships

The first World Rowing Championships was staged in Lucerne, Switzerland in 1962. Initially held every four years, the championships soon became an annual event. It is the biggest annual World Rowing event. The 2018 World Rowing Championships were held in Linz-Ottensheim, Austria with 1200 athletes from 80 nations competing

Female boat classes were included on the World Championship programme in 1974, with lightweight categories for both men and women featuring annually from 1985. In 2018 the championship programme became gender equal with the same number of boat classes for men and women. Para rowing was integrated into the World Rowing Championships programme in 2002. Originally raced over 1000m, in 2017 the length of racing changed to 2000m.

Rowing at the Olympic & Paralympic rowing regattas

Rowing became an Olympic sport in 1896, at the first Olympic Games of the modern era held in Athens, Greece. Rough seas in the Piraeus harbour, however, forced the event to be cancelled which is why rowing won its first Olympic medals four years later in Paris. Women's events were added to the Olympic programme in 1976 and lightweight events in 1996. Para rowing first appeared at the Paralympic Games in 2008.

The boats

Boats, or shells, were traditionally made from wood. Top level boats are now fabricated from composite materials such as carbon fibre and kevlar. The width of boats varies from approximately 30cm for a single scull and up to 65cm for an eight. A small fin is fitted beneath the boat for directional stability. A rudder is attached to the fin or the stern for steering (except on most sculling boats). A white ball (bow ball) is attached to the bow for safety as well as for judging precision of the start and finish of races. A splashboard prevents waves from splashing water aboard. Seats are fitted with wheels which roll on runners or tracks.

The oars

Oars are hollow to reduce weight, attached to the boat by adjustable outriggers. The size and shape of oars is unrestricted, the average length of a sweep oar is 3.70m and of a scull 2.85m.

2.2 About World Rowing

The World Rowing Federation is the governing body of the sport of rowing. It is empowered by its 156 member National Rowing Federations, the National Olympic Committees and the International Olympic Committee, to govern the sport of rowing.

World Rowing was previously called FISA (from the French, Fédération Internationale des Sociétés d’Aviron) with a full name change to World Rowing coming into effect in 2020.

World Rowing sets the rules and regulations for the practice of the sport in all its forms (elite, para rowing, coastal, masters and aspects of indoor). It organises sanctioned World Rowing events including those for junior and under-23s. It provides advice and expertise for the organisation of rowing regattas, coaching education, rowing development and other matters relating to the sport and its development.

In 2017 World Rowing, as FISA, celebrated its 125th anniversary. It was founded by representatives from Belgium, France, Italy, Switzerland and Adriatica (now a part of Italy) in Turin, Italy on 25 June 1892. It is the oldest international sports federation in the Olympic movement. World Rowing established its first headquarters in Lausanne, Switzerland in 1922 and, after moving away, it returned to its roots in February 1996.

World Rowing’s vision

To encourage the development of the sport of rowing and strengthen the bonds that unite all who enjoy the sport.

World Rowing’s mission

3.2 Event specific information

World Rowing Cup series

The World Rowing Cup, in its current form, was established by World Rowing in 1997 to give athletes more opportunities for top international racing. It is a series of three regattas that acts as a lead-up to the World Rowing Championships. The racing programme includes the 14 Olympic boat classes and a selection of international boat classes. Some World Cups also include para rowing boat classes.

Each Olympic boat class earns points based on the finishing order. The highest placing boat from a country is awarded the following points:

- 1st 8 points
- 2nd 6 points
- 3rd 5 points
- 4th 4 points
- 5th 3 points
- 6th 2 points
- 7th 1 point

If a country has more than one crew in a boat class, points will be awarded only to the first crew. The crew with the most points in each boat class is declared the World Rowing Cup leader and receives the yellow 'World Rowing Cup Leader Bib.' After the third World Rowing Cup regatta, the crew with the most points in each boat class is declared the World Cup winner and receives the World Rowing Cup for that boat class.

At the end of each World Cup, the country with the most points will be declared winner of that World Rowing Cup regatta and will receive the leading nation cup. The nation with the most points overall from all boat classes is declared overall winner of the 2019 World Rowing Cup.

European Rowing

European Rowing includes three events – junior, under-23 and the senior championships. For the European Rowing Championships it dates back to 1892 as one of the oldest pan-continental sporting events. First staged in Orta, Italy in 1893, the continental championships continued almost annually until 1973. In 2007 it was reintroduced into the international rowing calendar.

European rowing events are open to the 46 European member federations including Israel. The programme consists of the 14 Olympic boat classes a selection of international boat classes and para rowing boat classes.

In 2020 the European Rowing Championships was the only senior-level regatta to take place due to the coronavirus pandemic. It was held in Poznan, Poland, albeit later in the year than the usual slot in May. In the previous year Lucerne, Switzerland hosted the championships with nearly 600 competitors from 36 countries competing.

The European junior and under-23 championships were also able to be held in 2020 with the juniors racing in Belgrade, Serbia and the under-23's in Duisburg, Germany. The junior championships has been going since 2008 and regularly attracts around 30 nations with 450 participants. For the under-23's, it's in its fifth year.

European Rowing events are monitored and managed by the European Rowing Board (ERB). They recently added the European Rowing Indoor Championships to the season schedule.

World Rowing Championships

An Olympic and Paralympic year considerably changes the landscape of the World Rowing Championships. It means that the championships play second-fiddle to the Olympics, rather than being the pinnacle event of the rowing season. It also means that the racing schedule is adapted to just include non-Olympic and Paralympic boat classes.

For 2021, however, there is a new scenario at play due to the coronavirus pandemic. The World Rowing Championships will move to the later time in the season of October and include a full schedule of boat classes. Originally planned for 2020, the World Rowing Championships is rescheduled to be in Shanghai, China for 2021. This is the first time a World Rowing event has gone to China.

The championships stretches over eight days with the finals being spread over the final four days. In 2019 the championships took place in Linz-Ottensheim, Austria with nearly 1200 athletes competing from 80 nations.

4 Who to watch

4.1 Who to watch

Martin & Valent Sinkovic, Croatia

Men's Pair (M2-)

Martin and Valent Sinkovic are regulars on 'top rowers' lists. They started their international career in the men's quadruple sculls before becoming famous as a duo in the men's double. They hold the World's Best Time in the double, being the only double ever to go under six minutes. After winning gold at the 2016 Olympic Games in Rio, they decided it was time for a change and switched to the men's pair. Their rowing talent and pure strength has led to an almost seamless transition. The brothers are expected to be top contenders in the 2021 season with chance for another Olympic gold.

Paul O'Donovan, Ireland

Lightweight Men's Double Sculls (LM2x)

Paul O'Donovan first hit the limelight when he and his brother Gary won Ireland's first-ever Olympic medal in rowing. In this Olympic cycle, however, the road to glory has been bumpy. In 2017, O'Donovan raced the lightweight single when Gary was sidelined due to illness. The duo was back together in 2018 and managed to pull off gold at the World Championships. Paul, without Gary, added another accolade in 2019, when he won a tough selection to stay in the lightweight double. In the new combination with Fintan McCarthy, Paul earned another gold medal at the 2019 World Championships – a feat almost unheard of in this highly-competitive category.

Joshua Hicks, Australia

Men's Four (M4-)

The Australian men's sweep team has undergone extensive testing and the boats have changed dramatically in the last few years. Joshua Hicks seems to rise above it all. In 2017 and 2018, Hicks was part of the men's four that managed to grab the top of the podium. In 2019, Hicks was tested and put into the men's pair. After just a few weeks rowing together, Hicks and partner Spencer Turrin took bronze at the 2019 World Rowing Championships. This qualified the boat for the Olympic Games. No matter where Hicks lands in 2021, he is certain to add power to the boat.

Hannes Ocik, Germany*Men's Eight (M8+)*

The German men's eight is their country's flagship boat and famously known as the Deutsch-landachter. Ocik has been part of it since 2013. This has helped Ocik earn a stack of World and European titles. In 2016 at the Olympic Games, his crew finished second. This has inspired him to go after the Olympic gold. Ocik is a seven-time European Champion and has three World Championship titles. The crew looked to be on form at the 2020 European Championships in October and they are likely to carry this form into the 2021 season.

Sverri Nielsen, DenmarkMen's Single Sculls (M1x)*

Sverri Nielsen is a proud Faore Island man who has done the route of a long, slow burn to his current position as one of the fastest single scullers in the world. Nielsen first raced in the men's double sculls and posted scattered results. In 2016 he switched to the single and had his first A-final result at the European Championships. Slowly gaining momentum, Nielsen finally found his full potential in 2019. He finished one the podium at two World Rowing Cups and rounded the season off with gold at the 2019 World Rowing Championships. In 2020, Nielsen proved himself again by winning gold at the European Rowing Championships.

Koen Metsemakers, NetherlandsMen's Quadruple Sculls (M4x)*

He has been hailed by some as the best rower on the Dutch men's national team. Metsemakers made his international debut in 2016 in the men's double sculls. He quickly transferred to the men's quadruple scull where he has been competing and earning medals for the last three years. In 2019 Metsemakers was put in the stroke seat of the men's quad and led the boat to victory at the European and World Rowing Championships. The Dutch men's quad showed their prowess again at the 2020 European Rowing Championships by winning gold.

Kjetil Borch, Norway*Men's Single Sculls (M1x)*

It has been a bumpy road for Norwegian sculler Kjetil Borch, but his perseverance and determination has proved to be endless. Borch skyrocketed to fame in 2013 when he became World Champion in the men's double sculls. Then after several seasons dealing with injuries and new partners, Borch finally decided to go his own way. In 2018 he started in the single sculls. And it wasn't long before the change paid off. Just a few months later Borch had picked up World Cup medals and won the World Rowing Championships. While injury struck again in 2019, Borch still managed a third-place finish at the World Rowing Championships.

Pietro Ruta, ItalyLightweight Men's Double Sculls (LM2x)*

Italy's Pietro Ruta is a veteran in the lightweight men's double sculls. Debuting internationally in 2007, Ruta has been a part of the Italian lightweight effort ever since. He finished 7th at the 2012 Olympic Games in the lightweight double. Then at the Rio Olympics Ruta was part of the Italian lightweight men's four that was just shy of an Olympic medal, finishing fourth. Now partnered with Stefano Oppo, Ruta has once again found medal success. In 2019, the duo finished second at the World Rowing Championships in a blisteringly-fast field. And in 2020, Ruta picked up gold at the European Rowing Championships.

Mikolaj Burda, PolandMen's Four (M4-)*

The Polish men's four found their true speed at the 2019 World Rowing Championships. With Burda in two seat, they beat a tough field to become World Champions. In a crew filled with a combined 64 years of experience, Burda, 38, is the most-seasoned of them all. Burda started rowing internationally in the last century, at the 1999 World Rowing Cup I in the lightweight men's eight. Since then he has grown in both size and talent. He was part of the Polish men's eight at the 2004, 2008, 2012 and 2016 Olympic Games. In 2018, Burda started in the men's four and in 2019, they won the European and World Championships. In 2020, they finished with a bronze at the European Rowing Championships.

Liang Zhang, China

Men's Double Sculls (M2x)

Perhaps the most experienced and one of the longest-standing members of China's national rowing team, Liang Zhang has spent most of his career competing in the men's single sculls. He has had mixed results with a couple of A-final finishes. But in 2019, together with partner Zhiyu Liu, Zhang finally found the success in the men's double sculls. The duo won the first World Cup of the season, landed in the B-final at the second World Cup, then came back blazing at the World Rowing Championships. A perfectly-timed race saw Zhang and Liu get ahead of the field and become World Champions.

Sanita Puspure, Ireland

Women's Single Sculls (W1x)

Sanita Puspure has been competing internationally since 1999. While the early years of her career had mixed results, Puspure persevered. In 2018, she broke through. Not only did Puspure secure World Cup medals, she rounded off the season by becoming World Rowing Champion. Once Puspure had found speed, there was no going back. Her 2019 season mirrored her 2018 success and she was crowned World Champion again – securing her spot for the Olympic Games. In 2020, Puspure took advantage of the one international race to prove herself yet again – winning gold at the European Rowing Championships.

Kerri Gowler, New Zealand

Women's Pair (W2-) and Eight (W8+)

As part of the 2019 World Rowing Women's Crew of the Year, it is no surprise that Kerri Gowler is one to watch. Gowler's international career started in the women's eight back in 2013. She then switched to the pair and found her match together with Grace Prendergast. The duo have picked up a stack of medals along the way with the culmination of Gowler's success at the 2019 World Rowing Championships when she won not only in the pair, but also the eight. Gowler also holds the World Best Time in the pair together with partner Prendergast.

Katarzyna Zillman, Poland*Women's Quadruple Sculls (W4x)*

The women's quad has been a thrilling boat class to watch throughout the last Olympic cycle. Four countries are vying for the top spots. From stroke seat Katarzyna Zillman has led her crew to three podium finishes, including gold at last year's European Rowing Championships and the World Championship title in 2018. Zillman is best known for glancing to sky to eke out just a little more power in the final strokes of the race. As they head into the 2021, Zillman, 25, will be looking to set the pace to success.

Olympia Aldersey, AustraliaWomen's Four (W4-)*

Olympia Aldersey has been a talent in the Australian team since 2010. She began in the junior women's four, but then switched seamlessly between sweeping and sculling as her career pro-gressed. She has now raced internationally in the four, eight, single, double and quad. Her first name inspired by the Olympic Games, Aldersey raced at the Rio 2016 Olympic Games in the women's eight. For the 2019 season she was back in the four. The boat won at the third World Rowing Cup and then took the top place of the 2019 season; gold at the World Rowing Championships. Aldersey will have another shot at an Olympic medal come Tokyo.

Kara Kohler, United StatesWomen's Single Sculls (W1x)*

The United States often puts its top rowers into their women's eight flagship boat. But Kara Kohler has taken a different path and succeeded. After an international debut in the under-23 women's eight, Kohler switched to sculling boats and won a bronze medal in the women's quadruple sculls at the London 2012 Olympic Games. Kohler then switched between the pair and the quad before settling in the single in 2018. She has been working her way to the top ev-er since with A-final finishes in 2018 and finally a bronze medal at the 2019 World Rowing Championships.

Kyra Edwards, Great Britain

Women's Double Sculls (W2x)

Kyra Edwards is a talented young athlete who is just starting to work her way up the ranks in the British team. The 23-year-old first competed internationally in 2015 at the World Rowing Junior Championships. Her career got off with a bang taking silver in the quad. Edwards then made Great Britain's under-23 team and in 2018 she pulled off a silver again in the quad. Moving into the double – and into the senior team – for 2019, Edwards and her partner Ruth Siddorn are still working to find their speed. But watch them as the 2021 season continues – with an extra year of work under their belts, they might just pull off the unexpected.

Brooke Donoghue, New Zealand

Women's Double Sculls (W2x)

The Kiwis are known for producing top scullers and Brooke Donoghue is no exception. Donoghue premiered on the world scene in 2013 at the World Rowing Junior Championships where she finished fifth. Donoghue then quickly climbed the ranks and she has barely been off the middle of the podium since. In 2018, Donoghue and partner Olivia Loe finished second at the World Rowing Championships. Just one year later, they secured gold at the World Rowing Cup II and kept on going. They added 'world champion' to their list of accolades by winning gold at the 2019 World Rowing Championships and qualifying the boat for the Tokyo Olympics.

Chiaki Tomita, Japan

Lightweight Women's Single Sculls (LW1x)

The Tokyo Olympic Games are quickly approaching and Japan has been working hard to develop their young athletes. Although currently in a non-Olympic event (the lightweight single), Chiaki Tomita proved her speed at the 2019 World Rowing Championships. Facing a tough field, she won silver – the first World Championship medal for Japan in a number of years. For Tomita it all started internationally at the under-23 level in 2014. She then secured a spot for the 2016 Olympic Games in the lightweight women's double. Tomita still has time to qualify for the To-kyo Games at the 2021 Asian Continental Qualification Regatta. Competing at the Tokyo Olympics will surely make Tomita a star in her own country.

Ilse Paulis, Netherlands

Lightweight Women's Double Sculls (LW2x)

In 2016, Ilse Paulis surprised the world when she succeeded in qualifying the lightweight double sculls for the Olympic Games at the Final Olympic Qualification Regatta together with Maaike Head. But as if that wasn't enough, the duo went on to win gold in a spectacular race in Rio. This is an unusual feat as it requires an athlete to peak twice in a very short space of time. Paulis has now teamed up with Marieke Keijser and the success has continued. In 2019, they qualified directly for the Olympic Games with their second-place finish at the World Rowing Championships. In 2020, they showed their form by winning the European Rowing Championships.

Caileigh Filmer, Canada

Women's Pair (W2-)

A third place finish at the 2019 World Rowing Championships secured a spot in the pair for Canada at the Tokyo Olympics. Caileigh Filmer is likely to be in that spot after winning that bronze medal along with partner Hillary Janssens. At the same regatta, Filmer raced in Canada's eight finishing fourth and proving her value to the team. Filmer's success goes back another year with a World Championship title being won at the 2018 World Rowing Championships in the pair. Filmer has already been to one Olympic Games, racing in the Canadian eight at the Rio Olympics. The 24-year-old also has junior and under-23 medals as well as a bronze from the 2014 Youth Olympic Games.

Birgit Skarstein, Norway

PR1 Women's Single Sculls (PR1W1x)

Birgit Skarstein has been unstoppable since she transitioned from skiing to rowing. She first entered the fray in 2013 and immediately posted a bronze-medal finish. After two more years of impressive performances, Skarstein did not manage to land on the podium at the Rio 2016 Paralympic Games, finishing fourth. But it did not stop her. Skarstein came back fitter in 2017 and ready to take on the move from 1000m to 2000m racing. The distance has suited her well and Skarstein has claimed three consecutive world titles since. Now, all that's left is the elusive Paralympic podium.

Roman Polianskyi, Ukraine*PR1 Men's Single Sculls (PR1M1x)*

Roman Polianskyi's name has become synonymous with success in the para men's single sculls. In 2016, he surprised fans with a triumphant gold medal at the Paralympic Games in Rio. One year later, Polianskyi was back at it, seamlessly transitioning to the 2000m distance. He won silver at the 2017 World Rowing Championships and followed it with a repeat performance in 2018. Finally, in 2019, Polianskyi found himself back on top of the podium, claiming the World Championship title and securing his place for the Tokyo Paralympic Games.

Giedre Rakauskaite, Great BritainPR3 Mixed Coxed Four (PR3Mix4+)*

The British para mixed coxed four has seen success throughout the last two Olympic cycles, which has been aided by newcomer Giedre Rakauskaite. The 29-year-old first joined the British team in 2017, when they won the World Rowing Championships in Sarasota, Florida, USA. Two years later, she was back at it, helping her crew win yet another World Championship title, this time in Linz-Ottensheim, Austria. Now qualified for the Tokyo Paralympic Games, Rakauskaite and her crew will be looking to add another gold medal to the already-growing stack.

Corne de KoningPR2 Mixed Double Sculls (PR2Mix2x)*

Corne de Koning has been part of the Dutch para mixed double sculls since 2013. Working his way up the A-final ranking, de Koning finished fourth at the 2016 Paralympic Games, just out-side the medals. In 2017, he partnered with Annika van der Meer and the duo really took off. They started the new Paralympic cycle by winning gold at the 2017 World Rowing Championships and they didn't stop – they have made it on to the podium ever since. In 2019, the duo finished with silver at the World Rowing Championships and secured their ticket to the Paralympic Games.
