Our planet depends on clean water

Water is the lifeblood of our planet. It is essential in supporting human life, nourishing indispensable habitats and supplying agriculture and industry. In order to accomplish these crucial tasks, water must be kept clean. The amount and availability of clean water has become one of the greatest challenges of our time. World Rowing believes that we all have a responsibility to apply environmentally-sustainable practices to our use and management of water.

Rowing is a clean water sport and everyone involved in rowing has reason to protect this vital resource.

In 2011 World Rowing and WWF, the World Wide Fund for Nature, formed a global clean water partnership. This engages all rowers, rowing clubs and national rowing federations to work towards safeguarding their freshwater environments.

A joint action project, the Kafue River & Rowing Centre is a manifestation of this partnership. This project was inspired by the confluence of many pressures and problems in the Kafue River in Zambia and the need to bring all stakeholders together to discuss and help find solutions.

The development of a multi-purpose facility for water management education and research and the advancement of rowing in the region is underway. The global rowing community is at the forefront of a fundraising campaign to help establish the centre.

Donations are welcome

1.1 About rowing

The origin of rowing

The boat was mankind's most significant mode of transport for centuries and the oar is considered to be the most important invention before the wheel. The first representation of a rowing boat was discovered in Finland and dates back to 5,800 BC. The earliest regatta was held on 16 September 1274 in Venice, Italy, where regattas developed as challenges between gondoliers and boatmen in a variety of rowing boats. Rowing has evolved all over the world wherever people and water mix. The origin of the sport of rowing as we know it today comes from England, where the world-renowned Oxford versus Cambridge University Boat Race was first held in 1829 on the River Thames.

Rowing at the World Rowing Championships

The first World Rowing Championships was staged in Lucerne, Switzerland in 1962. Initially held every four years, the championships soon became an annual event. It is the biggest annual World Rowing event. The 2018 World Rowing Championships were held in Linz-Ottensheim, Austria with 1200 athletes from 80 nations competing Female boat classes were included on the World Championship programme in 1974, with lightweight categories for both men and women featuring annually from 1985. In 2018 the championship programme became gender equal with the same number of boat classes for men and women. Para rowing was integrated into the World Rowing Championships programme in 2002. Originally raced over 1000m, in 2017 the length of racing changed to 2000m.

Rowing at the Olympic & Paralympic rowing regattas

Rowing became an Olympic sport in 1896, at the first Olympic Games of the modern era held in Athens, Greece. Rough seas in the Piraeus harbour, however, forced the event to be cancelled which is why rowing won its first Olympic medals four years later in Paris. Women's events were added to the Olympic programme in 1976 and lightweight events in 1996. Para rowing first appeared at the Paralympic Games in 2008.

The boats

Boats, or shells, were traditionally made from wood. Top level boats are now fabricated from composite materials such as carbon fibre and kevlar. The width of boats varies from approximately 30cm for a single scull and up to 65cm for an eight. A small fin is fitted beneath the boat for directional stability. A rudder is attached to the fin or the stern for steering (except on most sculling boats). A white ball (bow ball) is attached to the bow for safety as well as for judging precision of the start and finish of races. A splashboard prevents waves from splashing water aboard. Seats are fitted with wheels which roll on runners or tracks.

The oars

Oars are hollow to reduce weight, attached to the boat by adjustable outriggers. The size and shape of oars is unrestricted, the average length of a sweep oar is 3.70m and of a scull 2.85m.

1.2 About World Rowing

The World Rowing Federation is the governing body of the sport of rowing. It is empowered by its 156 member National Rowing Federations, the National Olympic Committees and the International Olympic Committee, to govern the sport of rowing.

World Rowing was previously called FISA (from the French, Fédération Internationale des Sociétés d'Aviron) with a full name change to World Rowing coming into effect in 2020.

World Rowing sets the rules and regulations for the practice of the sport in all its forms (elite, para rowing, coastal, masters and aspects of indoor). It organises sanctioned World Rowing events including those for junior and under-23s. It provides advice and expertise for the organisation of rowing regattas, coaching education, rowing development and other matters relating to the sport and its development.

In 2017 World Rowing, as FISA, celebrated its 125th anniversary. It was founded by representatives from Belgium, France, Italy, Switzerland and Adriatica (now a part of Italy) in Turin, Italy on 25 June 1892. It is the oldest international sports federation in the Olympic movement. World Rowing established its first headquarters in Lausanne, Switzerland in 1922 and, after moving away, it returned to its roots in February 1996.

World Rowing's vision

To encourage the development of the sport of rowing and strengthen the bonds that unite all who enjoy the sport.

World Rowing's mission

To make rowing a universally practised and globally relevant sport in all its forms. To effectively and efficiently govern, develop, showcase and promote the sport of rowing and respect and protect the environment when practising the sport.

World Rowing's Guiding Principles

- Priority to Rowers and Rowing: The interests, well-being and health of the rowers are always at the centre of our sport. World Rowing directs its work in the interests of rowers and rowing.
- Rowing in all its Forms: World Rowing recognises the value of the different forms of rowing that exist globally and that enable the sport to be practised by people of differing ages, abilities and training objectives. World Rowing seeks to both represent and develop all of these different forms of rowing.
- Equality of Opportunity & Fairness: World Rowing seeks to ensure fairness and equality of opportunity, both in competition and across all levels of the organisation.
- Inclusion & Non-Discrimination: World Rowing is committed to inclusion and accessibility, strives for gender equality and does not tolerate any form of discrimination.
- Integrity: World Rowing is committed to the highest ethical standards, is a recognised leader in the fight against doping and is dedicated to preventing the manipulation of competitions.
- Sustainability: World Rowing carefully assesses sustainability in all its actions and decisions. FISA endorses a responsible and sustainable approach to the planning and staging of its events so as to maximise positive impacts and minimise negative impacts on the environment and surrounding communities.
- Autonomy & Independence: World Rowing undertakes to preserve the independence and autonomy of international sport.
- Integral Part of World Sport: World Rowing seeks to ensure a leading position for rowing in the world of sport. World Rowing is an integral member of the Olympic and Paralympic movements and other leading world sports organisations.

Core values of Rowing

Fairness	In a spirit of fair play, rowers learn self-discipline, the need for commitment and respect for their opponents.
Teamwork	Rowers learn that by working together to achieve a common goal everyone achieves more.
Inclusiveness	Rowers combine into a single and cooperative community, irrespective of race, gender, orientation, creed, age or ability.
Timeless	Rowers pass on time-honoured values and shared experiences from past to future generations.
Environmental awareness	Rowers respect and safeguard the water and its surroundings.

World Rowing at events

World Rowing activities during international events:

- The Umpiring Commission, chaired by Patrick Rombaut (Belgium), supervises and advises the Jury.
- The Events Commission, chaired by Eva Szanto (Hungary), oversees the preparation, technical aspects and running of the regatta.
- The Competitive Commission, chaired by Rosie Mayglothling (Great Britain), is in charge of competition regulation such as the fairness committee and coach support.
- The Sports Medicine Commission, chaired by Juergen Steinacker (Germany), oversees all medical aspects of the competition, including anti-doping.
- World Rowing's Executive Director Vincent Gaillard represents the Executive Committee in overseeing the operation of the event.

1.3 Boat classes

Rowing boat classes are either sculling or sweep events. In sculling (denoted by an 'x'), each rower has two oars whereas in sweep rowing (denoted by a '-' for boats without coxswains and '+' for coxed boats) each person in the boat has one oar.

Olympic boat classes

2.2 World Rowing season so far

This 2022 season comes on the back of two years of uncertainty and disruption that impacted the world including the sporting world. Almost the entire 2020 World Rowing season was cancelled including the World Rowing Championships and Olympic Games. The 2021 season was disrupted but the Tokyo Olympics managed to go ahead. The World Rowing Championships was again a COVID-19 fatality.

With 2022, a new Olympiad begins and the World Rowing Championships take place for the first time since 2019. This year has also seen a complete rowing season with all the markings of a post-Olympic year.

Like any year following the Olympics, athletes came into the season not knowing what to expect. It began at World Rowing Cup I in May in Belgrade, Serbia. This was the first look at who was putting themselves forward. Belgrade had 36 nations racing and had Great Britain coming out firing on all cylinders. They topped the medals table with eight gold, two silver and four bronze medals. This included dominating the sweep events by winning the men's and women's pair and men's and women's four and men's eight. The line ups were new as were the crew names.

The Netherlands came second on the medals table with gold medal success in the women's single, double and quadruple sculls. Olympic medallist Karolein Florijn was particularly impressive in the single as was Roos de Jong and Laila Youssifou in the double. De Jong and Youssifou then went on to take gold in the women's eight just a couple of hours later.

Multiple Olympic medallists, Martin and Valent Sinkovic of Croatia swapped from the Olympic Champion pair into the double sculls for 2022 and won.

Then came World Rowing Cup II in June in Poznan, Poland. This saw more than 600 athletes sign up to race. These numbers were despite Great Britain's absence and the Netherlands grabbed the opportunity to rank first with six gold medals. De Jong and Youssifou again won the double and the eight. The Dutch also won the men's and women's single sculls with Florijn making it two for two and Melvin Twellaar taking his first gold in the single.

The men's double turned out to be the most exciting race of the regatta. Maybe unsurprisingly, the Sinkovic brothers won, with home favourites Poland taking second and then a dead heat for third defied the best photo finish camera. The Netherlands and Australia could not be separated, both taking bronze.

The final in the World Cup series, World Rowing Cup III took place in Lucerne, Switzerland and favourable weather saw a new World Best Time being set. Imogen Grant of Great Britain led the lightweight women's single sculls and clocked 7:23. Paul O'Donovan of Ireland followed this up in the lightweight men's single sculls by setting a World Cup Best Time one race later.

Great Britain comfortably topped the medals table scoring seven gold medals – three of these were in men's sweep events. They also took gold in the women's four and set a World Cup Best Time in the process. Germany moved up in the ranks placing second in the medals table. This included gold for young single sculler, Alexandra Foester, 20, who surprised everyone by winning the women's single. Germany, however, could only score bronze in the men's eight with Great Britain and Australia finishing first and second respectively.

The pre-World Championship season wrapped up with the European Rowing Championships. Held in Munich in conjunction with the multi-sport 2022 European Championships, 18 nations took home medals with Great Britain topping the medals table. Romania finished in second with eight medals. Germany was unable to dominate on their home course with their top two boats finding themselves off the medal podium. Single sculler Oliver Zeidler was leading for most of the race but then got swallowed up in the dying metres and pushed into fourth. Dutch sculler Melvin Twellaar took the gold as did his female counterpart, Karolien Florijn in the women's single event. The Germans also suffered in the men's eight when they were pushed out of the medals by Great Britain, the Netherlands and Italy.

The Sinkovic brothers wrapped up a perfect season by winning the men's pair while Paralympic Champion Roman Polianskyi of Ukraine was not so lucky in the PR1 men's single. He finished second behind newcomer Giacomo Perini of Italy.

2.3 Rowing at the World Championships

Boat Classes

Races in Olympic, International and para rowing boat classes are contested over 2000m. Depending upon the number of entries in each event, there will be heats, repechages, quarterfinals, semifinals and finals. A and B finals will be contested in all events with eight or more entries. Where 14 or more crews are entered, C, D, E etc. finals will be contested. Each boat is drawn into a first-round race (the heat) with progression to further rounds depending on placings and the number of entries in accordance with the World Rowing progression system.

Rowing follows a unique format in that crews have the benefit of a second chance if they are not successful in their first round heat. The repechage is the name for the second round of competition which ensures that every crew has a second chance to advance from the preliminary races to the next round.

- Round 1: Heats – after the initial round of heats, every unsuccessful crew has a second chance to advance in the repechages round.
- Round 2: Repechages – second chance to advance.
- Round 3: Quarterfinals (only if an event has 25 or more boats competing).
- Round 4: Semifinals (only for events with 13 or more boats competing).
- Round 5: Finals – A, B, C, D... Finals (In principle, there are no more than six boats per final. The top six boats in the qualification rounds compete in the A-final, the following six in the B-final, etc. Only the rowers who finish in the top three places of the A-final win a medal.)

Note: The rounds to which crews advance after each race and the number of crews advancing depends on the number of boats entered in each event as defined in the World Rowing progression system and is shown on the start lists and result lists.

Lanes

There are normally eight buoys lanes, of which six are used at one time for racing. Each lane is 13.5 m wide. A draw is conducted before the beginning of racing to determine the allocation of crews to heats and to lane positions within each heat. A seeding panel determines in advance which crews will be seeded. The purpose of seeding is to avoid having all the faster boats in a boat class being drawn into the same heat in the first round.

Competition schedule contingency plan

As for any outdoor sporting event, it is possible that the competition schedule may be disrupted due to adverse weather conditions. The World Rowing Rules allow for the implementation of certain contingency plans to ensure that the competition can be completed within the available days.

World Rowing has identified a number of contingency plans or options that can be implemented, depending on the severity of the conditions and the threatened disruption to the competition schedule. These include:

- Changing the start times of the races and/or the intervals between races.
- Combining different groups on the same day.
- Combining two rounds in the same day.
- Combining finals on three days, two days or all on one day.
- Time trials.

Dead heat rules and procedures

If there is a dead heat between crews, there are several options to resolve it depending on the round of the competition. In many cases, the tie is resolved by having the relevant crews row a 2000m race again in order to find a winner. If, in a final, there is a dead heat both crews will be given equal placing and the next placing left vacant with no re-row. If the tied placing is for a medal position, additional medals will be awarded drawn into the same heat in the first round.

Crew changes

Up to half of the rowers in all crews entered may be substituted at least one hour before the first heat of the boat class. A crew which has already raced in the heat of its boat class may not make changes in the crew, except in the case of a serious illness or injury. A single sculler who entered and falls ill or is injured may be replaced before their heat. No substitution may be made for a single sculler after their first heat.

Penalties / disqualification rules / exclusion

The Board of the Jury may impose the following penalties: reprimand, yellow card (applying to the next round in which the crew competes), exclusion (from all the rounds of the event in question), relegation where this is specifically provided in the Rules (to last place in its race of that round), disqualification (from all boat classes in the regatta), or any other appropriate measure in order to assure the fairness of the competition. A crew arriving at the start after the start time or causing two false starts will be excluded. A yellow card is equivalent to one false start. Crews interfering with opponents during the race may be excluded by the umpire.

2.4 Rowing in the Czech Republic

Rowing in the Czech Republic can, in many ways, be defined by the single sculls. Vaclav Chalupa, who made the national team as Czechoslovakia in 1985, raced at two Olympic Games for his nation. When the Czech Republic was formed Chalupa was still racing and continued through four more Olympic Games before retiring just prior to his 42nd birthday.

Chalupa was the nation's top single sculler for nearly two decades until he was surpassed by Ondrej Synek. Synek soon showed his speed internationally and he gained five World Championship titles and three Olympic medals. World Championship gold included 2010, 2013, 2014, 2015 and 2017 as well as silver in Beijing and London and bronze at the Rio Olympics. Synek did not compete at the delayed Tokyo Olympics in 2021 and retired that same year.

On the women's side, Mirka Knapkova worked her way through the women's single field since beginning her international career in 2001. At the Athens Olympics she finished fourth and then at Beijing she was in fifth. At the 2012 London Olympic Games Knapkova struck gold. Knapkova raced again at the Rio Olympics, but missed out on a podium finish. After taking time off, Knapkova came back to race in 2018. She retired a year later.

One of the main rowing centres in the country is in the small town of Racice, about an hour out of Prague. This is an international regatta course that has hosted a number of World Rowing events including the 2017 European Rowing Championships. In 2018 Racice hosted the World Rowing Junior Championships and in 2021 it hosted the World Rowing Under 23 Championships.

The nation's capital city, Prague also has many top rowers concentrated at the club Dukla Praha which is one of five rowing clubs rowing on the Vltava which runs through Prague. Throughout the country there are about 39 clubs.

3 Rowers to watch

3.1 Rowers to watch

Sergiu Bejan (Romania)

Sergiu Bejan had, until this season, spent his whole rowing career in the Romanian men's eight – achieving a number of podium places but no outright titles. This year, he joined Marius Cozmiuc in the pair for World Rowing Cup III (in Lucerne) and the European Rowing Championships (in Munich). The duo had an average performance in Lucerne, winning the B-final after just missing out on a place in the A-final, but by Munich they had found their form and swept to a stunning victory over the more-fancied British duo. In the final, Bejan and Cozmiuc led from the buzzer and looked good cruising to a two-second win. There's surely more to come.

@sergiu_bejan

Caleb Antill (Australia)

Tokyo Olympic Games quadruple sculls bronze medallist Caleb Antill has moved into the men's double sculls this season, racing with Jack Cleary and David Barthelot at World Rowing Cups II and III respectively and reaching both podiums. Antill and Barthelot went on from World Rowing Cup III to win the Double Sculls Challenge Cup at Henley Royal Regatta and were duly selected in the boat for the World Rowing Championships. Antill brings several years of sculling experience, largely but not exclusively in the quadruple scull. He also won silver at the 2018 World Rowing Championships in the quad and will be keen to see if he and Barthelot can challenge for another medal in Racice.

@ant_ill

Rodrigo Conde Romero (Spain)

Rodrigo Conde Romero began his senior career as a lightweight, reaching the final at his first World Cup aged only 18 back in 2016. He became the under-23 lightweight double sculls World Champion for the first time the same year. By 2018 he was double under-23 World Champion and was reaching the final of the senior world championships too. But last season Conde Romero switched to the openweight double sculls and this year he and partner Aleix Garcia Pujolar have really made an impact. They won bronze at both World Rowing Cup I and III, and led out their "heroes", the Sinkovic brothers of Croatia, in the 2022 European Rowing Championships final – eventually winning silver.

@rodrigo.conderomero

Raphael Ahumada Ireland (Switzerland)

Swiss rowing is in an exciting place right now with a number of young talents on the rise. Raphael Ahumada Ireland is definitely one of them. He is in his first full year on the senior team and what a year it has been for the 21-year-old. He and Jan Schaeuble won a convincing gold medal at World Rowing Cup I in May and were fifth in a tough field at World Rowing Cup III on their home water in Lucerne. At the 2022 European Rowing Championships the Swiss duo led out Olympic gold and bronze medallists Ireland and Italy, eventually taking a bronze medal which gives plenty of hope for more in the future.

@raphael_ahumada

Thomas Ford (Great Britain)

Next year will mark a decade in a British vest for Tom Ford and a succession of medals and titles at European and world level. Ford is currently stroking the British men's eight, which has had a dominant season – unbeaten at World Rowing Cups I and III and the European Rowing Championships and also beating Australia to the Grand Challenge Cup at Henley Royal Regatta by an impressive $2\frac{3}{4}$ length margin. Ford first raced for his country at the under-23 level in 2011, and has been part of the British senior squad since 2017 racing in all sweep boats – but achieving his best results in the eight. World championship gold is one achievement he is still missing, but this year's eight could be the boat to fill that gap.

@tom_g_ford

Nicolas van Sprang (Netherlands)

Nicolas van Sprang has had a varied career, showing his versatility in sculling and sweep. In the last few years he has mostly been wielding one oar, racing the pair in 2020, 2021 and the first two World Rowing Cups of the current season and winning silver at World Rowing Cup II. However, for the 2022 European Rowing Championships van Sprang joined the men's eight and in a dramatic final – which saw stroke Guillaume Krommenhoek catch a boat-stopping crab soon after the start – won silver. It was the first championships medal of van Sprang's career, but surely not the last.

@nsprang

Kristian Vasilev (Bulgaria)

Barely anyone saw Kristian Vasilev coming in the final of the men's single sculls at the 2022 European Rowing Championships. Lurking in lane 6, Vasilev had tracked the race leaders from the start – staying in touch, but never really in the medal mix – until he unleashed a devastating last 500m that was two and a half seconds faster than anyone else. That took him into bronze medal position and his first major championship medal. At the age of 30, Vasilev is having his best season yet, with a silver at World Rowing Cup III in Lucerne to add to his European championships medal. If he can replicate that form in Racice, he is a clear danger to the rest of the men's single scull field.

Fintan McCarthy (Ireland)

Fintan McCarthy's more garlanded, and more outspoken, lightweight double sculls partner Paul O'Donovan remarked after the 2022 European Rowing Championships final that it was in fact McCarthy doing most of the work as they took another gold medal. And indeed since displacing Rio 2016 Olympic Games silver medallist Gary O'Donovan in the boat, McCarthy has made his seat his own. The duo are undefeated since the 2019 World Rowing Championships, winning Ireland's first-ever Olympic rowing gold at the Tokyo 2020 Olympic Games. Along the way, McCarthy has also impressed in the lightweight single on occasion. He might be more softly spoken than O'Donovan, but he is key to the success of the Irish flagship.

@fintanmccarthy

Stefano Oppo (Italy)

After the lightweight men's four was moved off the Olympic programme Stefano Oppo, like many others, switched to sculling in a bid to keep his Olympic seat in the lightweight men's double. Oppo had been part of the fourth-placed lightweight four at the Rio 2016 Olympic Games and set out to do better at the Tokyo 2020 Olympic Games. Oppo and partner Pietro Ruta established themselves as among the world's best lightweight doubles immediately, winning bronze at the 2017 European Rowing Championships. Since then they have made the podium on almost every occasion they have raced – although they are yet to beat their rivals Ireland. Could Racice be the time to do this?

@stefanoppo

Dovydas Nemeravicius (Lithuania)

Lithuania's men's quadruple sculls crew had a rollercoaster season in 2021, first just missing out on a qualification spot for the Tokyo Olympics and then being handed a last-minute place after Russia withdrew. They eventually finished last after having no real preparation time. The 2022 season has so far been substantially better for the quad's three-man Dovydas Nemeravicius. This year selected in the men's double scull, Nemeravicius and Armandas Kelmelis have been working their way up the rankings, and they stood on the podium at the 2022 European Rowing Championships with an excellent bronze medal. They will be looking to continue on the upwards streak at the World Rowing Championships.

@nemeravicius

Tara Rigney (Australia)

Due to the Covid-19 pandemic, Tara Rigney has had relatively little exposure to the senior international rowing scene. Indeed, her first regatta in a senior boat for Australia was the Tokyo 2020 Olympics, where she and Amanda Bateman finished seventh overall after winning the B-final. This season, Rigney has impressed in the women's single scull, winning bronze at World Rowing Cup II and upgrading to silver at World Rowing Cup III. At the age of just 24 she has plenty of potential for the future and it will be exciting to see what she can produce at the world championships.

@tararigney

Imogen Grant (Great Britain)

By 2018, just four years after taking up rowing at Cambridge University, Imogen Grant was under-23 World Champion in the lightweight single sculls. Since then she has been a constant in the British squad, while also pursuing a medical degree. After an agonisingly close fourth place alongside Emily Craig in the lightweight double at Tokyo, Grant continued her studies and stroked Cambridge University to Boat Race victory. Despite the break from international rowing, Grant was back for World Rowing Cup III where she set a new World Best Time in the lightweight single. She and Craig then won their first major title in the lightweight double at the 2022 European Rowing Championships and will come to Racice among the favourites.

@imogendaisy

Evangelia Anastasiadou (Greece)

At the age of just 20, Evangelia Anastasiadou is having a breakout season. Having won lightweight women's single sculls silver at the 2021 World Rowing Under-23 Championships, 2022 has seen Anastasiadou step up not only in the younger age category but also at senior level. She broke the under-23 world best time in the heats of the 2022 World Rowing Under-23 Championships and won the final by a three-second margin. Originally slated to compete in the lightweight double at the 2022 European Rowing Championships, Anastasiadou ended up racing in the open single where, despite the headwind and racing the final from lane 6, she took silver.

Molly Reckford (United States)

Before 2021 Molly Reckford had made one appearance for the US rowing team, finishing fourth in the lightweight quadruple sculls at the 2019 World Rowing Championships. However, in selection for the Tokyo Olympics Reckford, in a new pairing with Michelle Sechser, dominated to earn the nod as the US lightweight double. They duly won the Final Olympic Qualification Regatta and finished fifth in the final in Tokyo. Reckford was following in the footsteps of her biathlete grandfather Bill Spencer who competed at two Winter Olympic Games and she is now on the path to her own second Olympics after a win in the lightweight double at World Rowing Cup II and in the Storror Challenge Trophy at Henley Royal Regatta this year.

@mollyrecksergs

Xiaotong Cui (China)

In the last four years Xiaotong Cui has only been beaten once in the women's quadruple sculls. It happened at World Rowing Cup I this year when the Dutch quad beat the Chinese by 0.2 seconds. Otherwise, it has been a string of victories for a boat which is impressive both in technique and power. Stroke Cui has been setting the rhythm since moving into the crew in 2018. The following season saw China win the World Rowing Championships and they were untouchable at the Tokyo Olympics, when they secured gold by a huge six-second margin. Another world championship title looks well within the grasp of Cui and her crew.

Grace Prendergast (New Zealand)

Reigning women's pair World and Olympic Champion Grace Prendergast raced her first international race since the Tokyo Olympics at World Rowing Cup III in Lucerne and it was as though she and partner Kerri Williams had never been away. They held off the fast-finishing Romanians to claim yet another win, setting them up for a bid to retain their world title. For Prendergast, the world championships will end an unusual year – she went back to university in autumn 2021, signing up to a graduate course in planning, growth and regeneration at Cambridge University and sitting at seven-seat in the victorious women's Boat Race crew.

@graceprendergast.nz

Kirsten McCann (South Africa)

It is now 15 years since Kirsten McCann first raced internationally for South Africa, but she is still leading the way for the country's lightweight rowing programme. McCann has been a regular in A-finals in the lightweight double and single sculls, with a string of World Rowing Cup and World Rowing Championship medals to her name – including the 2017 lightweight single world championship title. While McCann missed out on the Tokyo Olympics, she seems to be back with a vengeance this year and put in a strong scull to win the lightweight single bronze at World Rowing Cup III in Lucerne.

@kirstrow

Gabrielle Smith (Canada)

Although she has spent most of her career sculling – notably representing Canada in the women's double sculls at the 2018 and 2019 World Rowing Championships and at the Tokyo 2020 Olympics – Gabrielle Smith has switched to sweep this year. She raced in the four at World Rowing Cup II and moved into the eight for World Rowing Cup III when Canada took silver behind Australia. Smith is named in the eight again for the World Rowing Championships, sitting at seven-seat to back up Olympic Champion stroke Avalon Wasteneys. After Canada's Olympic gold in the eight in Tokyo, the pressure is on to keep delivering and the skill Smith brings from the smaller boat will undoubtedly be a boost.

@gabrielle.h.smith

Nazanin Malaei (Iran)

Nazanin Malaei's story is one of persistence and hard work. She has been racing internationally for some time, first appearing in a women's quadruple scull crew at the 2009 World Rowing Junior Championships. Apart from continental championships, Malaei did not race again internationally until the Tokyo Olympics. There she made history by being the first Iranian rower to finish in the top 12 at the Olympics, ending up 11th overall in the single. Malaei was discouraged from rowing when she started out because of her build, but has kept at it despite the lack of infrastructure in Iran. She'll be looking to make further history.

@nazanin.malaei

Kenia Lechuga (Mexico)

Kenia Lechuga first caught the attention of the rowing world in the heats of the Rio Olympic Games. Racing in rough water, she beat soon-to-be Olympic Champion Kimberley Brennan in the single sculls. Lechuga ended up sixth in the B-final in Rio, but soon after claimed bronze in the lightweight women's single at the 2016 World Rowing Under-23 Championships. Since then, Lechuga has kept working and her efforts paid off with a superb lightweight single silver medal at World Rowing Cup III in Lucerne; her best result to date. She will certainly be seeking similar success in Racice.

@kenialechuga_

Iaroslav Koiuda (Ukraine)

The 2022 European Rowing Championships in Munich were a milestone regatta for Iaroslav Koiuda. After a string of second, third and fourth places throughout his career, Koiuda finally won a major championships – picking up gold in the PR2 mixed double sculls with Svitlana Bohuslavská. It was an emotional medal for the Ukrainians, who like the rest of the country's rowing team, have been training abroad since the outbreak of war in February 2022. Koiuda already has two world championship medals and looks well on track to pick up a third, and potentially his first gold, in Racice.

@iaroslav_koiuda

Manuela Diening (Germany)

It is less than 18 months since Manuela Diening made her international debut when she finished fifth in the PR1 women's single sculls at the 2021 European Rowing Championships. On that occasion she was some 30 seconds behind winner Birgit Skarstein. But after booking her seat in the boat at World Rowing Cup I this season, when she beat fellow German Sybille Pille-Steppat to win bronze, Diening has grown in confidence and skill. At the 2022 European Rowing Championships she moved up through the field from fourth at 500m to second by 1,500m, and ended up with a silver medal only eight seconds back from Skarstein. With that sort of progression, the 30-year-old can have hopes of putting even more pressure on Skarstein in the future.

Laurent Cadot (France)

The World Rowing Championships is a familiar scene for Laurent Cadot, who has raced multiple times at this level and is a two-time Olympian. But it is seven years since Cadot last competed at a world championships. In 2012, after a routine operation on his back, Cadot contracted an infection in hospital. While he returned to international rowing the following year, he stepped away from the sport after the 2015 World Rowing Championships. Seven years on, and newly classified as a PR3 athlete, Cadot is back to strengthen the French PR3 mixed coxed four. He stroked them to silver at the 2022 European Rowing Championships. With a home Paralympic Games approaching, there is plenty for Cadot to work towards in this new phase of his career.

3.2 World Rowing Championships five featured races from last 10 years

Looking back over the last ten years one thing is for sure, it has been a strange old decade for the World Rowing Championships. With no event in either 2020 or 2021 we look back to earlier in the decade to do the very difficult task of picking some of the top races.

Men's single sculls final at the 2019 World Rowing Championships in Linz-Ottensheim, Austria

It was to be the last big showdown before meeting again at the Tokyo Olympics and it came down to a photo finish when the top five boats crossed the finish line within a second of each other. The top three; Oliver Zeidler (GER), Sverri Nielsen (DEN) and Kjetil Borch (NOR) were just half a second apart.

Men's pair final at the 2013 World Rowing Championships in Chungju, Korea

This was classic Hamish Bond and Eric Murray. The pair from New Zealand began dominating this boat class four years prior and, as this their style, they went out solidly at the start but did not begin to dominate until the second 500. They then performed negative-splits to the end, finishing nearly seven seconds ahead of the next closest boat.

Women's four final at the 2014 World Rowing Championships in Amsterdam, the Netherlands.

The New Zealand crew of Grace Prendergast, Kayla Pratt, Kerri Gowler and Kelsey Bevan were rowing in a non-Olympic boat class. But it didn't stop them from putting it all on the line and in the process they broken the World Best Time by a huge 11 seconds.

Little did they know that this boat class would be back at the 2020 Olympic Games. Little did they know that their World Best Time would still stand today and little did they know the success to come for Prendergast and Gowler (now Williams).

Women's eight final at the 2017 World Rowing Championships in Sarasota, United States

The United States women's eight had been dominating this event for years with barely a blip from always winning gold. In front of their home crowd this came to an end when Romania, Canada and New Zealand knocked them off the medals podium in a close race to the end.

Lightweight men's double sculls final at the 2015 World Rowing Championships in Aiguebelette, France

The tears flowed at the end of this race, not just from Jeremie Azou but throughout France. The World Championship title had been a long time coming after too many silvers. But Great Britain did not make it easy for Azou and his partner Stany Delayre and it was a tight race to the end.

Sustainability and World Rowing

Protecting and enhancing the wellbeing of communities and ecosystems through the sport of rowing.

In the practice of our sport we inevitably impact the people, communities and environment. WE have a responsibility as rowers to protect and preserve all that we touch through our sport, minimising negative impacts and seeking to make positive impacts instead.

As an organisation World Rowing integrates sustainability principles and objectives into its day-to-day operations and decision-making processes.

As the global custodian of the sport of rowing, World Rowing's role is to lead our communities and facilitate a positive contribution by rowers and rowing to the wellbeing of people, communities and the environment.

We call it our ‘sustainability race plan’

In implementing this policy World Rowing is guided by

- Biodiversity
- Clean water
- Climate action
- Diversity and inclusion
- Responsible consumption
- Fair and equitable treatment
- Partnerships, education and grassroots activism
